STRIKERS SLOW TO RESPOND

NOT YET AT WORK
DESPITE ACCORD

MINE AND DOCK CREWS QUIT

Paris, June 8.
This gay capital still wears the habit of an English Sunday in certain quarters where the big departmental stores are still occupied by the strikers. But after a meeting this afternoon between the representatives of employers and workers, over which the Minister of the Interior, M. Salengro, presided, it was stated that there was hope of an agreement being reached and work starting again to-morrow.

The end of the strike of petrol suppliers to-day resulted in an increase in street traffic, but the taxi drivers may strike to-morrow. It appears that the taxi drivers, shop-walkers and some other such, are not included in the newly-signed Labour Charter, which only covers industries. It is therefore possible that such trades may strike in order to secure their inclusion in the Charter. Or, again, the absence of newspapers in the provinces news of the strike settlement in Paris has travelled slowly, and it is impossible yet to state how many have returned to work. Generally speaking the situation is still unaltered.

Meanwhile, 1,500 Dunkirk dockers have struck and are threatening to disrupt the cross-Channel service, while miners of du Nord and Pas de Calais have struck, as they decided to do on Saturday.

The miners' delegates are meeting the employers to-morrow at Douai when it is expected that a settlement will be reached. LABOUR JOYFUL

Paris, June 8.
A million jubilant strikers awaited their leaders' orders to return to work to-day after their major victory. The Government hoped to end the northern strike quickly. They attributed it to the lack of provincial newspapers, which cannot publish owing to the strike. The miners are unaware of the agreement reached at Paris.

They do not know that employers have conceded the demands of Labour for paid vacations, a forty-hour week, collective labour contracts, and increases in wages ranging from seven to fifteen per cent.

The employers signed the agreement on the condition that the Government assured uniform application of the terms throughout France. However, the strikes cannot be said to have ended, for there are still individual claims to be negotiated.

NEW DEAL PROGRAMME
Meanwhile, the Government is prepared to take the first great step in the New Deal programme, the nationalisation of war industries—over which leaders are most secretive.

It is learned, however, that three solutions offer: 1, direct expropriation by the state with a payment in cash or bonds; 2, placing government representatives on the boards of directors, thus giving direct control; 3, changing the munitions companies' common stocks, now bringing in unlimited dividends, to five or six per cent bonds, the remainder of the profits going to the Government.

INSURANCE STRIKE
Paris, June 8.
Seven insurance company premises are now occupied by stay-in strikers. FRANC RECOVERS

London, June 8.
Meets of the new French Premier, M. Leon Blum's declaration of policy were apparent on the foreign exchange market to-day, when there was a marked rally in the French franc, and other continental gold currencies strengthened in sympathy. Closing three months' forward rate for the French franc at 6½ discount showed a small improvement.

The price of gold has recovered a shilling and half since last Thursday. British Wireless.

Chiang Kai-Shek's Stand Made Clear

WON'T TOLERATE USURPATION OF POWER BY SOUTH

BELIEVES CANTON WILL AVOID CIVIL WAR

Nanking, June 9.

The first official pronouncement upon the South-west situation was made by Marshal Chiang Kai-shek, the Central Government's actual leader, to-day.

He declared the Government would continue to adhere to its policy of safeguarding the nation's interests.

He admitted there had been differences between Nanking and Canton, but he believed the Kwangtung and Kwangsi leaders would not seize upon the Government's foreign policy as "an alibi in the starting of a civil war," nor proclaim their independence.

He emphasised that such questions as declaring war and negotiating peace rested with the Central authorities, not with a minority inspired with personal feelings.

Marshal Chiang announced that a plenary session of the Central Executive Committee would be held to discuss the situation, and he hoped Kwangsi and Kwangtung would attend in full force. —Reuter.

FREDDIE TO SUPPORT HIS FAMILY

MOTHER WINS PART OF HIS INCOME

PRODIGY STAYS WITH AUNT

Los Angeles, June 8.

The battle over the guardianship of Freddie Bartholomew—and the money he earns as a child actor—has ended in an agreement. It was signed in the chambers of Judge Harry Archibald.

His aunt, Miss Bartholomew, retains her guardianship and a portion of Freddie's income will maintain his parents, who are bringing his two sisters from England to make their home in Los Angeles. His grandparents have already arrived to join the household.

Freddie will not live with this branch of the family, however. He will remain with his aunt, who is his father's sister, and who has brought him up from babyhood.

It was Freddie's mother who brought action in the first place. She lost the first court test. —United Press.

KING TO HOLD LEVEE

ALSO TO VISIT PORTSMOUTH

London, June 8.

H.M. the King will drive in a State carriage, accompanied by a sovereign's escort of Household Cavalry, to-morrow morning from York House to Buckingham Palace where His Majesty is holding a levee. It is announced to-day that the King is visiting Portsmouth on June 30 to inspect the establishments in the Portsmouth Naval Command. His Majesty will visit the naval barracks and afterwards the marines' barracks at Eastney, and will lunch with Admiral Sir John Kelly, Commander-in-Chief, at Admiralty House. The King may also visit the Royal yacht Victoria and Albert, which has recently undergone her annual overhaul. —British Wireless.

Fatal Mishap Aboard Liner

SEAMAN KILLED ON QUEEN MARY

NO HOPE OF RECORD

London, June 8.

A fatal accident was reported aboard the British luxury liner, Queen Mary, to-day. Arthur Golding, a twenty-two-year-old lad, making his first trip as a seaman, was found unconscious and bleeding profusely on the deck. Apparently he had slipped and struck his head heavily. He died subsequently. Passengers were unaware of his death or of the brief burial service which was performed quietly. A moderate swell to-day induced a slight roll, somewhat destroying the earlier illusions of a luxurious hotel ashore. There is no hope of a record on the present trip as the ship has not reached the speed attained on her outward voyage or the average speed of the Normandie's homeward passage. The Queen Mary covered 670 miles during the past twenty-four hours. She has encountered fog frequently. —Reuter Bulletin Service.

ANGUISHED HUNT FOR INJURED

FOLLOWS COLLAPSE OF GRANDSTAND

DISASTER AT REVIEW

(Special To "Telegraph")

Ducharest, June 8.
Anguished crowds are still making the rounds of hospitals to discover relatives who have been missing since the collapse of a grandstand at the review of Boy Scouts by King Carol, held to commemorate the sixth anniversary of his accession to the throne.

The review had been arranged as a climax to the conference between Little Entente nations. The stand, one of six, was a hundred yards long, seating nearly six thousand people. It collapsed in the middle, and the occupants were shot forward, a mass of struggling humanity.

It is believed that between twenty and thirty were killed and four hundred injured, many critically. The stand was newly-constructed, the Mayor having refused the tender of a big contractor and allotted the work to small carpenters. Hence, the whole structure was badly co-ordinated. —Reuter Special.

No Payment On War Debt

WHITE PAPER GIVES EXPLANATION

London, June 8.

This evening gives the texts of correspondence between the United States Government and the British Embassy in Washington regarding the British War Debt.

The Department of State addressed a note on May 22 to the British Government transmitting a statement of amounts due half yearly since June 15, 1933 and including agreement of 1932, and the moratorium agreement of 1932, and the United States Government to discuss proposals the British Government might desire to put forward as payment.

The statement shows the total amount due on June 15 next to be $85,070,765.

In acknowledging the note and accompanying statement on June 7, Sir Ronald Lindsay said: "His Majesty's Government explained in their note of June 4, 1934, the reasons for which they were reluctantly forced to suspend payments. Those reasons are fortunately no less valid now than they were then."

"His Majesty's Government desire to express their appreciation of your assurance that the United States Government are ready to discuss any proposals in regard to the payment which may be put forward in return that His Majesty's Government will be glad to reopen negotiations whenever circumstances are such as to warrant hope that a satisfactory result might be reached." —British Wireless.

MODERNISED BATTLESHIP

REPULSE STEAMS TO MEDITERRANEAN

London, June 8.

H.M.S. Repulse, which has been in dockyard hands for three years for reconstruction and modernisation, left Portsmouth to-day for the Mediterranean. Reconstruction cost £1,400,000, and has greatly enhanced the efficiency of the battleship. The Repulse will replace the Renown, which is about to undergo repairs estimated to cost £720,000. —Reuter Special.

FILIPINO FLIERS REACH HANOI

Arnaiz and J. Calvo, flying from Manila to Madrid, are here seen about to take off from Kai Tak Aerodrome yesterday, being handed mail by Mr. L. R. Idefonso. The fliers reached Hanoi last evening, after being delayed by bad weather, which necessitated their making a forced landing at Fort Bayard. —Staff Photographer.

GIANTS LOSING GROUND

CUBS AND PIRATES GAIN STEADILY

YANKEES KEEP WELL AHEAD

New York, June 8.
New York Giants still cling precariously to second berth in the National League to-day, but they cannot afford to lose another game if Chicago and Pittsburgh continue to win. Chicago is within a few points of the Giants and Pittsburgh is only a step behind the Cubs.

New York lost again, against the Cincinnati Reds, seven to three. The Reds hit twelve times to the Giants ten. Each had an error.

Pittsburgh beat the Brooklyn Dodgers narrowly, two to one, winning on eight hits against seven. They had two errors and Dodgers one. French pitched for Chicago and shut out the Phillies. He gave them eight hits but did not allow a run. Phillies had three errors. The Cubs turned seven hits into victory.

St. Louis, the league leaders, and Boston, did not play.

YANKEES GAIN

The New York Yankees gained another step in the American League and Boston, in second place to them, failed to improve its position, splitting a double-header with Detroit.

Yankees were not hard put to it to beat St. Louis. They scored twelve runs on sixteen hits, two of them homers by Dimaggio and Gehrig. The Browns tallied three times as many hits. Yankees had two and Browns one error.

Philadelphia beat Chicago five to four in ten innings, noosing out the Sox by the odd hit. Each had two errors.

Boston might have come close to catching the Yankees by winning the double-header with Detroit. The Red Sox won the opener, six to three, when Cronin hit a homer. They had only nine hits against Detroit's eleven. There were no errors.

Detroit pulled ahead in the second contest, scoring twelve runs on as many hits. Detroit's fielding was weak, and there were five errors. But even so, Boston could only manage seven runs on eight hits, and they, too, had two errors.

The Cleveland-Washington game was postponed on account of rain. —Reuter.

FILIPINO FLIERS DELAYED

FORCED TO LAND AT FORT BAYARD

REACH HANOI IN 8 HOURS

Fears for the safety of the Manila-Madrid fliers P. Arnaiz and J. Calvo, which grew grave when midnight came without word of their whereabouts, have now been allayed.

They were held up and forced down, finally, by bad weather, but they have reached Hanoi safely from Hongkong.

They left Hongkong at 10.50 a.m. and expected to cover this, the second leg of their journey to Spain in something like seven hours, at most. But eight hours passed without word of them here. Nor could Hanoi see a sign of them.

However, a message from the fliers to the Philippines-Head cleared up the mystery, the United Press explains to-day.

"Arnaiz and Calvo radioed the Howd they were forced down in bad weather at Fort Bayard. They resumed their flight and arrived at Hanoi at 6 o'clock."

"Their next stop will be Vientiane."

INSANE CRIMINALS AT LARGE

HUNTED THROUGH MINNESOTA WOODS

LONELY FARMS WARNED

St. Peter, June 8.

Fifty armed policemen to-day searched the wooded Minnesota river bottoms for fourteen criminally insane fugitives from the state asylum.

These men escaped at sunset Sunday after overpowering five guards.

They used the legs of dining-room tables to pry the iron bars from second-storey window and slid to the ground by a fire-hose.

They climbed a sixteen foot wire fence and vanished.

The authorities have issued a statewide warning that the men are very desperate and patrol cars have carried the news to every farm house within miles, ordering farmers to lock the doors and windows and prepare for a possible attack.

Two of the fugitives, Tom Delap and David Rhoades were captured near St. James attempting to hitchhike. —United Press.

Severe Floods In Assam

FIFTY VILLAGES ARE INUNDATED

Shillong, Assam, June 8.
Exceptionally heavy rains have caused flooding in many parts of Upper Assam, where fifty villages have been inundated.

UNEMPLOYED DECLINE

GERMAN AND BRITISH FIGURES

Berlin, June 8.

The unemployed in Germany on May 31 totalled 1,191,201, a reduction of 272,000 compared with April. The figure is over 200,000 below the lowest figure in 1935. —Reuter Special.

BRITISH GAINS

London, June 8.
The number of unemployed in Britain on May 25 had declined by 120,188, compared with April 27, while insured employees numbered 10,831,000, an increase of 110,000. —Reuter Special.

MARKED DECREASE

London, June 8.
A further marked decrease in the numbers of unemployed is shown in the return for May issued by the Labour Ministry to-night. The Ministry estimates that on May 25 the number of insured persons aged 16 to 64 in employment in Great Britain, exclusive of agricultural workers, was approximately 10,831,000. This was 19,000 more than on April 27 and 472,000 more than on May 20, 1935.

Agricultural workers became insured at the beginning of May, but statistics of the numbers of such workers in employment are not yet available.

Of May 25 the numbers of registered unemployed were 1,705,042, comprising 1,307,765 wholly unemployed, 225,285 temporarily laid off and 82,002 normally in casual employment. The total was 125,188 less than the month before and 339,710 less than a year ago. —British Wireless.

THE DUKE MAY GO ABROAD NEXT YEAR

ANNOUNCING THE KING'S ACCESSION TO FOREIGN COURTS

THERE is likely to be a busy time ahead for the Duke of York, for it is said that the King intends to commission him with the discharge of many of the duties which were normally the task of His Majesty when he was Prince of Wales.

In fact, the Duke, as Heir Presumptive, will be "Prince of Wales" in all but name.

It is probable, too, that the Duke will next year receive the King's command to pay a series of visits to foreign monarchs to announce to them his brother's accession to the Throne.

This is a formality still followed by the countries which adhere to a monarchical regime.

With this project in view there are likely to be several additional appointments to the Duke's staff.

Another Equerry

These may include an additional equerry, a Naval, Military, and Air Force A.D.C., as well as a secretary to assist Commander Harold Campbell, who is now the Duke's only private secretary.

There will be increasing demands on the King's time as the Coronation approaches, and it is inevitable that he will frequently have to delegate his duties to one of his brothers.

BUTTER FROM JAPAN

20 COUNTRIES SHIP TO BRITAIN

The National Farmers' Union states that the recent arrival of a shipment of 50 tons of Japanese butter, following sample consignments during the past year, indicates that when her dairy herds have been sufficiently increased Japan may become a serious competitor in the British butter market.

The Union points out that in the past few years the United Kingdom has become the "dumping ground" of the world's surplus butter, more than 20 countries regularly sending supplies.

The Japanese dairy industry receives Government assistance in several ways. Part of the expenses of importing foreign-bred cattle is paid by the Government, and producers are able to use, free of charge, the animals kept at a Government livestock experimental station for breeding purposes.

Lord Dawson of Penn, speaking on "Physical Education," said physical education and games should be regarded as complementary. "To-day, the public conscience demands it," he added. "There is a strong effort to save men the weakening of physique apt to result from unemployment. Recreative physical training makes that effort."

MAN AND WIFE SWALLOWED UP IN 80-FT. HOLE

REAR OF HOUSE FALLS INTO ABYSS

NO TRACE OF BODIES

The rear portion of two houses in Merton-road, Norwich, a district notorious for subsidences owing to subterranean workings of an old chalk pit, collapsed recently and disappeared in a hole estimated to be 80ft. deep.

An elderly man and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Hall, aged 74 and 71 respectively, were sleeping in the rear portion of one of the houses, and were swallowed up with their bed in the abyss. They were not found.

The subsidence occurred an hour after midnight. A rumble and then a crash caused Mr. Ben Bainham, of Merton-road, to rush from his front bedroom to pitch headlong into space. As he fell into the hole he shouted a warning to his wife and daughter, and saved them from a similar experience.

Later, when rescuers arrived, Mr. Bainham was found to have had a remarkable escape, for after falling 20 feet his further descent was checked by a ledge at the cost of a fractured ankle.

Mr. and Mrs. Hall were the father and mother of Mrs. Bainham. Desperate efforts were made to find them, and tunnels were dug at different angles in the debris.

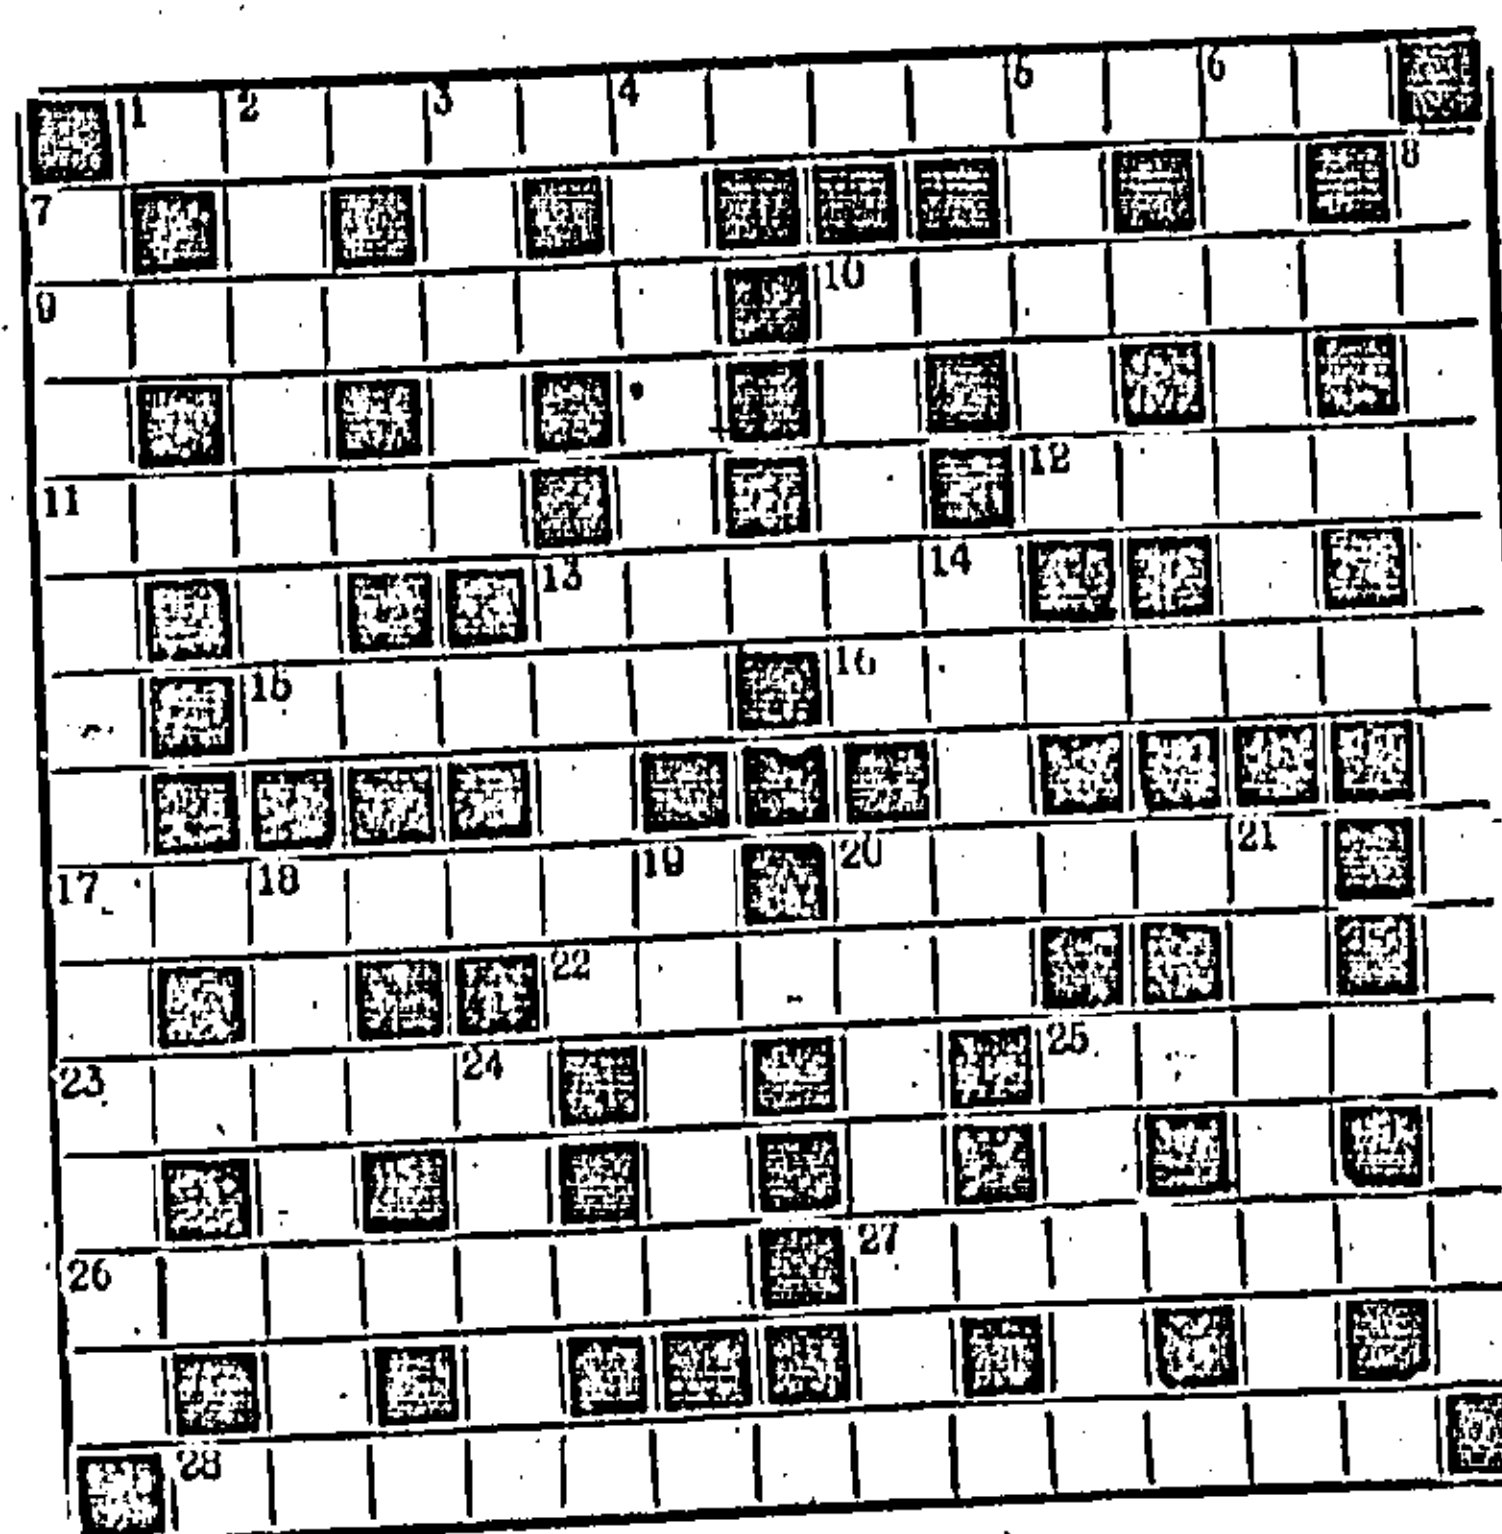

OTHER HOUSES EVACUATED
Though the whole of the rear of the Bainham's house has disappeared, the front is standing as though nothing happened.

In the case of the second house, Mr. Thomas Humphrey and his wife had remarkable escapes. Their bedroom was affected by the subsidence, and their bed was found to be standing within 3 feet of the edge of the cavity.

Robbed As He Lay Injured

WHILE lying semi-conscious in the roadway, after being knocked down by a motor-car, Councillor S. Harper, a former mayor of Islington, N., was robbed of a gold and diamond tie-pin, worth £35. "Mean and ghastly," was how Councillor Harper described the theft. He has recovered from his injuries.

NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE MARKET UPWARD YESTERDAY

New York, June 8. —Swan, Culbertson & Fritz Dow Jones summary of yesterday's market:—The market to-day advanced as much as two points due to the easier French financial tension which resulted in the franc staging a smart recovery to above the gold point. Steel issues led the advance and other major groups followed. Utility securities were strong and were relatively improved, led by New York Central. Mercantiles rose on prospects of heavy Soldier Bonus buying. Electric equipment and copper shares advanced on the outlook of increased utility company orders. Building issues gained on New York City reports that construction during May was 35½ per cent. above that of May last year. In the bond market, domestic corporations were higher, but trading was on the light side. Stocks on the Curb Exchange were upward, led by utility issues.

Swan, Culbertson & Fritz Wall Street Journal comment on 0/0 markets:—A survey shows that the used car situation throughout the United States is no worse than usual. The French situation is losing its effectiveness as a threat to the market. Financial circles would welcome the long-delayed French devaluation. Trade reports indicate well sustained activity this summer. Wall Street expects that Governor Landon will be nominated as the Republican candidate for the Presidency. Brokers say that there is no large volume of selling orders at above the market. Odds of 3 to 5 are offered on the re-election of President Roosevelt.

S. C. & F. New York office cables: Stocks: Securities were in better demand on improved news and prices look likely to move higher. General Motor Company's sales to consumers during May totaled 104,022 units, against 100,051 units in May last year. Montgomery Ward sales in May were 32 per cent. above those of last year. The Times Business Index for the past week is 101.2, against 99.4 the previous week.

Cotton: Improving statistical position and trade reports outweigh the Eastern drought relief and forecast of more rain. It is reported that over 1,000,000 bales of Government cotton have been sold without disturbing the market. Sales of print-cloth during the week are reported to have totaled 125 per cent. of production.

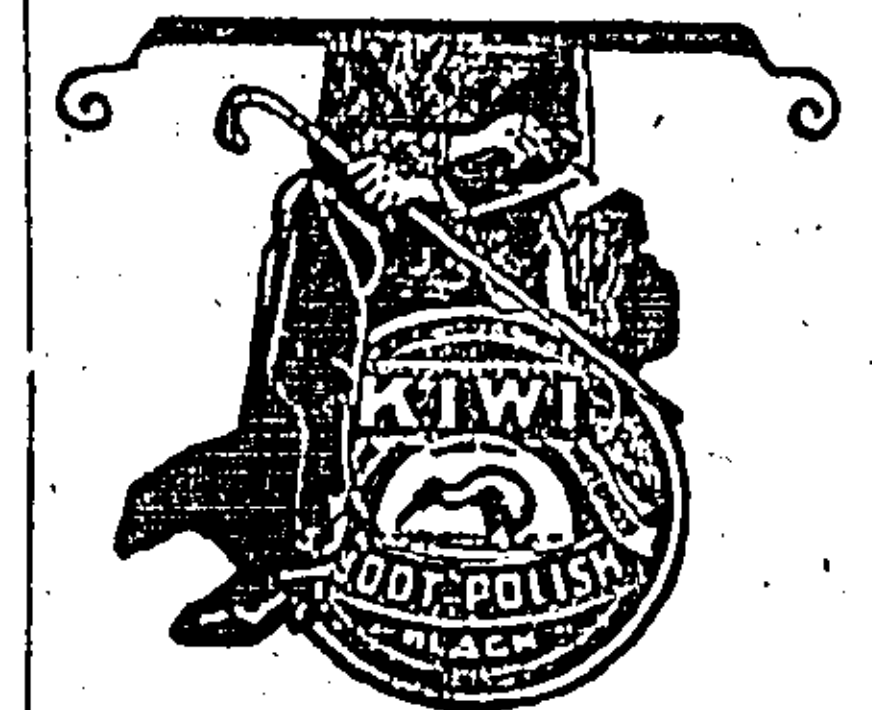

Wheat: With the North-West drought relieved and forecast of more rain, an excellent winter crop and hedging, the outlook is bearish. The Canadian visible supply shows a decrease of 5,340,000 bushels, whilst the visible supply in the United States has decreased by 2,000,000 bushels. The visible supply of corn shows an increase of 255,000 bushels.

Rubber: The market advanced on high May consumption estimates, the steadiness of the primary markets and the easing tension in France. The English stocks of rubber have decreased by 1,600 tons.

Hides: It is reported that 160,000 hides will be offered by the Government on June 17th.

INNER MONGOLIA PLAN

PUPPET GOVERNMENT UNDER PRINCE TEH

Peking, June 8. According to reports from Kalgan, the Japanese are trying to accomplish two things in Inner Mongolia, namely:—

- (1) The organization of an independent puppet government under Prince Teh.
- (2) The occupation of the five districts of East Suiyuan.

Both Prince Teh and Mr. Wu Hsiang-shan have lost their freedom and the Military Headquarters of Mongolia has been organized recently with Prince Teh as nominal Commander-in-Chief.

Li Sou-hsin, Commander of the Manchukuo troops in North Chahar, has been appointed commander of the 1st Army of the Mongolian forces and Pao Kwei-ting has been appointed as commander of the 2nd Army of the Mongolian forces which indicates that Prince Teh has no personal influence over these Mongolian forces.

The Director of Japanese Special Service Departments in Peking and Pellenmiao are extremely active at present.—Union News.

Volunteers Claim Successes. Harbin, June 8. More than ten Japanese officers were killed in an encounter with the anti-Japanese volunteers at Larin, North Manchuria, on May 29, according to a report received here. According to another report, some 600 anti-Japanese volunteers under the command of Hsiao Yang-kai launched an attack against the mining district at Tanyun district in Pingkiang province on May 22.

As a result of the fight, six Japanese were killed and three seriously wounded.

The Japanese Kwantung Army is planning to launch another offensive campaign against the volunteers. Union News.

EMPEROR SELASSIE EMPIRE PRESS UNION

TO NEGOTIATE WITH MUSSOLINI?

London, June 8. It is reported here that Emperor Haile Selassie is contemplating leaving for Rome shortly to negotiate directly with Signor Mussolini in the event of his failing to obtain satisfaction from Great Britain or the League.

The rumours of such a move are considered significant, it being recalled that prior to the Negus's flight Signor Mussolini was prepared to make an offer in which the Emperor retained sovereignty over certain provinces, and secondly, that Emperor Selassie recently stated that he would be inaccessible to negotiation.

MEDITERRANEAN SAFEGUARDS

There is considerable significance in the report that Britain is considering the transfer of her naval base in the Mediterranean from Malta to Cyprus, it being held in some quarters that Malta is now out-of-date and no longer safeguards the Mediterranean. Cyprus, on the other hand, is considered to be better situated to protect the Suez Canal entrance, and, moreover, possesses facilities for all types of aircraft. Without doubt, one of the reasons which caused the failure of the League in Ethiopia was Britain's tardy recognition that her control of the Mediterranean had been drastically weakened by the development of the aeroplane and new naval weapons which rendered naval bases, especially Malta, of little use. A well-known American journal, commenting on the failure to make sanctions against Italy really effective, asks whether it was more fear of injury by Italy or fear of upsetting a delicate balance of power in Europe either by throwing Mussolini into Hitler's arms or by breaking Italy's power to stand against Germany in Austria. The latter fear was manifestly dominant in France if not in England. It lay behind the Hoare-Laval plan. And from the beginning it lay behind the reluctance to apply measures which would have really stopped Italy. It probably accounts for the failure to close the Suez Canal which would have cut Mussolini's power in two. It was plainly the reason for applying only those sanctions which would still permit Italy to fight. Whether the sanctions which were applied were weakening Italy so that she could not have carried on a second year's campaign is a question. Haile Selassie's flight makes academic. Apparently, says the authority quoted, the League powers were counting too much on Abyssinian weather and geography. And Geneva was defeated far more definitely when it refused to

Will France Follow Spain On Bloody Path Of Terror?

POLITICAL assassination, arson and pillage have been the first-fruits of the triumph in Spain of the Popular Front or Communist Bloc.

Everybody here in Paris to-day is asking whether France is doomed to travel by the same bloodstained path and whether here, too, the summer skies are to be illumined by the flames from burning buildings.

In France, the birthplace of revolutions, the elections which have just taken place have given an absolute majority, not only of seats but of votes throughout the country, to the French Popular Front, which, like its namesake in Spain, is composed of Communists, Socialists and Radicals.

There are those who are saying, "The disorders may be occurring in Spain, but such excesses are impossible in France."

They have overlooked the atrocious massacres of September 1793 when the Paris mob murdered innocent prisoners and when the streets of Paris ran red with blood. They have forgotten that one year later within the space of five weeks 1,367 men and women, most of them innocent of any political crime—men and women of the highest character and unblemished life—were guillotined on the Place de la Concorde.

apply the oil sanction than when Addis Ababa collapsed. Whether sanctions would have been any more successful had the United States, Germany and Japan been in the League is very doubtful. The dependence of France on Italy—clearly revealed in the anomalous appeal to Rome to join in pressure against Germany over the Rhineland—was such that they apparently could not tolerate successful sanctions against Italy. The sanctions they did apply only irritated the Italian people and helped to make Mussolini's African adventure a national crusade against the League. What then does this experience mean? Manifestly sanctions failed to stop Mussolini. Or rather the nations failed to apply effective sanctions, dared not drive economic pressure to the point of military sanctions. Clearly peace could not in this case be enforced without the use of force. Can it under different circumstances? Probably not against any great power. Certainly statesmen, charged with responsibility for immediate action, are not likely to put much faith in sanctions until the nations have recognized more clearly that the risks of anarchy are greater than the risks of collective security. The next step for statesmen, who must deal with things as they appear to be, not as they would like them to be, will be some less pretentious method than Article 16—continued development of the Geneva forum as a means of showing up the essence of international disputes and adjusting them; working, through active application of Article 19 for the removal of injustices that cause war; or possibly general attempts to prevent rather than penalize war by putting embargoes on all belligerents. For others the next step might well be an undisciplined effort to understand the true nature of peace and the peaceful thinking which is the surest peacemaking.

CIVIL STRIFE

FRANCE has even in more recent times of political stress been the scene of crimes worse than those which have been committed in Spain. In the Commune of 1871 churches were burned down and hostages were taken out and shot.

Nobody, therefore, can say that in a fresh fever of political agitation, when party opposes party, similar crimes may not be repeated.

But it is from the Communists, who are now for the first time in history 83 strong in the French Chamber, that such violence can be feared.

The Socialists and the Radicals, with a moderate programme, strictly within the law, may perhaps be allowed to hold the stage at first. And yet the Communists are already chafing at such restraint, and one of their more violent leaders, not a worker but a writer, M. Vaillant-Couturier, is clamouring for immediate action and for the Popular Front to take office at once, whether such a thing be strictly constitutional or not.

And so the history of a possible French crisis can be imagined in advance. The Socialists and Radicals will try to carry out the Popular Front policy, and will bring about financial crisis after financial crisis, while trade and industry will suffer, and soon the millions will be affected by hunger and want.

LACK of bread has always been a cry in Paris which has raised barricades in the streets, and the Communists, with their experts from Moscow, would not be slow to take advantage of such a situation. Socialists and Radicals would be swamped. Many of them would desert to the Communist ranks.

By Harold G.
Cardozo,

History would repeat itself, and the little band of Communists, the "Montagnards" of the Reign of Terror, would become supreme in a Rump Parliament. Then there would come the reign of the guillotine and of the torturers, men of the bloodthirsty stamp of Couthon and Fouquier-Tinville.

The day might come when Notre Dame would be sacked and its priceless treasures disappear. Churches like La Trinite and St. Vincent de Paul might crash in a turmoil of smoke and flames. The great houses on the Avenue Foch might be the scene of murder, arson and pillage, and once more unburied dead might lie in the streets of Paris while Communist mobs from the Red suburbs armed with machine-guns and explosives wreaked their will.

There is another side to the picture. The French are more educated than they were in the days of past revolutions. There is a link between the ex-Servicemen, few of whom are revolutionaries, and the majority of whom are united in the intention to fight if Bolshevism should ever show its head in France.

There is, moreover, the fear that such civil strife might be fatal to the political independence of the country. It is known that a powerful and united nation lies on the other side of the Rhine—a nation which is pledged to suppress Communism, and which would not sit idle if the flames of civil war were to spread along its very borders.

Such organisations as Colonel de la Rocque's Croix de Feu, which now numbers nearly 2,000,000 disciplined and enthusiastic adherents, would not accept red revolution and the suppression of constitutional legality without joining issue with its bitterest opponents, the Communists. There is the French Army, whose corps of officers, though not taking an active part in politics, would not countenance the violent overthrow of the present Republican regime.

PLAYING WITH FIRE

FINALLY, there is that extraordinary elasticity and power of recovery of the French nation. There are many, indeed, who say that although nobody knows his name, a "man who can save France" may be just awaiting his time.

Nobody can be sure of what the next few months may bring forth—whether they will mean revolution or recovery. But to live dangerously and then to expect some fresh and miraculous return to stability is simply playing with fire.

RULES FOR H.K. BATHERS

NO MULES OR GOATS CAN BATHE

The constantly increasing demand for bathing facilities in the Colony has made it necessary for the Government to decide on control measures at the various beaches.

Accordingly, under the terms of the Pleasure Grounds and Bathing Places Regulation Ordinance, shortly to be introduced in the Legislative Council, detailed rules are being laid down. These cover numerous points, including the conditions under which tents and awnings may be erected, and surf-boards used.

The proposed regulations, in full, are as follows:

At every bathing place— Vehicles (except perambulators) are prohibited on the beach; and Dogs (except on a lead), cattle, horses, mules, goats and similar animals are prohibited upon the beach and in the water over or near the beach, and no person shall do or cause to be done any act in contravention of any prohibition contained in either paragraph of this regulation.

TENTS AND AWNINGS

No person shall maintain for hire any tent, awning, screen or similar structure on the beach at any bathing place at which bathing sheds are maintained on areas held under permits issued by the Director of Public Works or the appropriate District Officer.

No person shall maintain for hire any tent, awning or similar structure on the beach at any other place, except on the written permission of the Director of Public Works, and elsewhere of the appropriate District Officer. The fee payable for any such written permission, which shall be valid for one year and which shall be subject to any condition which the Director of Public Works or the appropriate District Officer may deem fit to impose, shall be $10.

Tents, awnings or similar structures, in private ownership and not intended to be let for hire, may be erected and maintained without permit for periods not exceeding twelve hours in any one day on the beach at any bathing place at which no bathing sheds are maintained on areas held under permits issued by the Director of Public Works or the appropriate District Officer.

Tents, awnings or similar structures, in private ownership and not intended to be let for hire, may be erected and maintained without permit for periods not exceeding twelve hours in any one day on the beach at any other bathing place, only if an area in such beach has been allotted and marked off by the Director of Public Works or the appropriate District Officer, as the case may be, for such temporary erections, and then only within such area.

HAWKING AND RUBBISH

No person shall hawk any goods, wares, merchandise, or any food, at any bathing place without the permission of the appropriate District Officer.

St. Joseph With a Waistcoat

Picture That May Cause A Storm

A PAINTING which may arouse controversy in religious circles hangs on a wall of St. Augustine's Church, Chorlton-on-Medlock, Manchester, to which it has been presented by Mr. Louis Duffy, a young Manchester artist.

It shows saints in modern dress at the burial of Christ. Joseph is in shirt sleeves and wears a waistcoat. A woman kneeling by the figure of Christ has a shawl over her head. Mary and Nicodemus, however, are in flowing robes.

"I had no intention of merely painting a 'different' picture," Mr. Duffy told the Sunday Dispatch. "In every serious religious picture that has ever been painted the artist has used the dress of his own time for his characters."

Effective Message

"I firmly believe that I, or any other artist, can convey a message for more effectively through the colour and design of modern dress than by trying to recapture the traditional costume."

"Some people will fail to find any message in my painting when they see the dress of their own time, but on the other hand a great many have told me that they agree with me."

PEOPLE TRICKED AT ELECTION

Cabinet Pretended They Agreed With Council Of Action Policy

"WE are making a great human appeal to the electorate of this country on issues on the solution of which will depend the progress and happiness of the human race."

That was Mr. Lloyd George's opening declaration at a conference at Central Hall, Westminster, of chairmen and officers of area committees of the Council of Action for Peace and Reconstruction.

"One of these issues," continued Mr. Lloyd George, "is the abolition of human sacrifice as a means of protection against the forces of evil that divide nations."

TWO GREAT ISSUES

"This is the worst and the most cruel relic of a savage worship which unhappily survives in the form of war, and upon a more tremendous scale than was ever contemplated in the imagination of our forefathers."

"In the last war ten millions were slaughtered on the altar of this ferocious superstition."

The abolition of that was one of the great issues upon which they were concentrating.

His second thought was the imperative need of the reorganisation of the ample resources of society, in such a way as to ensure a secure life for all human beings who conformed to the just rules of a civilised community.

"The distressed areas," he said, "have been with us so long that we are now taking them for granted, but the bleak wastes of this country are not confined to districts which are scheduled as distressed."

"You will find them in hundreds of cities, towns and villages which are not on the list."

"As long as 20 millions of our fellow-citizens are declared by high scientific authorities to be habitually under-nourished, no one can claim that we have approached the attainment of what is due from a Christian State to its citizens."

"We are non-parties—men and women of all parties—and a great many of us not knowing exactly what party. (Laughter.)"

"But we have felt that while there are several parties, there are only two alternative policies: one is the policy of human brotherhood and the other the policy of inhuman selfishness and indifference."

WHY THEY FAILED AT GENERAL ELECTION

"These were the issues we stood to raise in the last election. We raised them in definite form in their bearings on current events."

"Why did we not succeed in impressing them on the electorate?"

"Largely because they were obscured not by conditions, but by the apparent adhesion on the part of all parties who were running candidates, and not mere adhesion but, so far as words were concerned, devotion."

"Take the talk of peace, veneration for the Covenant, the zeal for collective action and the need for improving the conditions of the down-trodden masses who lived in the black areas."

"PRETENDED THEY WERE ON OUR SIDE"

"Hundreds of thousands of men and women honestly believed in the sincerity of these professions and voted accordingly."

"That is what happened at the last election. We were beaten not by argument but by assent. It never happened before and it is a very menacing phenomenon."

"We lost our case at the last election because they fraudulently pretended they were on our side."

"We know the result only too well. Disillusionment is now universal."

"Then came the inevitable triumph of plunder, barbarism and savagery. How many of those who cast their votes on the strength of those exalted and noble declarations made at the last election are now satisfied with the achievements of those chosen to redeem their professions?"

"Coming to the other branch of our appeal, the social conditions of the people of this country, I would like to ask not what has been accomplished, but what has even been attempted to relieve the distress in millions of households."

"Having failed through lack of the human energy, which is necessary in all big enterprises to lift international relations on to the level of ordered justice, the Government has taken refuge in joining the mad preparations for war which are going on everywhere throughout the world, and which will end in the most terrible calamity that has ever afflicted the human race unless something or somebody stops it—and that soon."

"It is a sad reflection that democracy should be purposeful, resolute, valiant and self-sacrificing in war, and be aimless, feeble, timorous and self-indulgent in the pursuit of peace."

"If ever we stumble again into war, which God forbid, I have no doubt at all that those manly and noble qualities will be once more roused among democratic nations."

Mr. Lloyd George emphasises point during his speech.

"In it impossible to stir them up now in and for peace and social reconstruction? That is our purpose."

IF COUNCIL IS TO SUCCEED

"If our organisation is to succeed at all it will be by helping to give the right answer to that question which I put."

"If the Churches are united in their determination to put these things right without deference to powerful interests, with the influence they wield both outside as well as inside the churches, and also without reference to party prejudices and predilections, all these wrongs and miseries would be swept away in a decade."

In a discussion Mr. P. Hopkins (Western area) foresaw the possibility of a great popular front in the cause of peace.

ETHIOPIA'S MINERAL WEALTH

IMMEDIATE SURVEY PLANNED

Work has begun for the scientific exploitation of Ethiopia's resources. Gold, platinum, iron, sulphur, mica, nitrate and mercury are optimistically listed by Signor Gayda in the Giornale d'Italia. Signor Gayda also spills out the fruits of an African cornucopia at the feet of Italy.

"Cotton, linen, skins, coffee and unlimited virgin forests of precious timber." In the midst of all these the prospect of oil also gushes forth freely.

Recently the Duce received Count Volpi who is Chairman of the Industrial Confederation of Italy. Signor Mussolini has ordered him to make an immediate start in studying the productive possibilities of Abyssinia.

Marshal Badoglio has given orders for the closure of the Imperial Bank of Ethiopia in Addis Ababa, in view of the imminent opening there of a branch of the Bank of Italy. Arrangements are now being completed for "absorbing" the Bank of Ethiopia in the Italian institution.

All auxiliary flying officers, non-commissioned officers and other ranks who have only their civil aviation flying certificate are being recalled to the colours for four months' training.

A VATICAN PRONOUNCEMENT

Addressing a Catholic Press conference and Catholic newspaper exhibition which opened in the Vatican, the Pope made his first reference to the Italian victory in Africa.

The Holy Father expressed his satisfaction that the conference concluded "almost exactly with the happy triumph of a great and good people—a triumph for a peace which should be and is a valid factor in and prelude of true European and world peace."

Much prominence is given in Rome to an interview granted by the American Ambassador in Rome, Mr. Brockbridge Long, at present in the United States, to the Washington correspondent of an Austrian newspaper in which he said: "The campaign in Abyssinia is finished, and so is also virtually finished the diplomatic struggle at Geneva. Fascism has imposed its will. There are no existing factors of any kind capable of breaking this will. This victory is of value as a new guarantee of peace for Europe."

GOOD AVERAGES DESPITE DIFFICULT SEASON

Absence Of Bowlers Chief Trouble At H.K.C.C.

OWEN HUGHES HEADS BATTING AVERAGE

(By R. Abbit)

In the last few days I have received two sets of figures, one from the Hongkong Club, and one from the leaders in last Season's school cricket, the Central British School. And I am much obliged to my contributors. It is interesting to get them practically together as it is to be hoped that the lack of good recruits disclosed in the Club's figures may be offset by the fact that the school figures show that, locally at all events, we have a few useful youngsters coming along. Whether or no they will be saved to the game and pass on into the ranks of our various Club sides remains to be seen.

The Club have had a most difficult season and I do not propose to enumerate all the players they have lost since the season started. Suffice it to say that very nearly a full eleven could be made up of those who have gone, and one quite capable of holding its own in the League, especially in bowling.

The Club has been so strong that even this steady exodus of players has not reduced them to a lowly position in the League. They did not complete their programme I think, (I write this without any records and notes being to hand) and they certainly played at least one match when by no means at full strength and lost it in declaring to try and force a win. Even as the figures stand they are fourth and might have been third, had there been time to finish their programme.

The great trouble of the Club at present is lack of new players. If the nine names shown in the batting averages of the first eleven be scanned, it will be seen that practically all are old hands. It is not surprising, in these difficult times, for a few players to bring out from England. And it must be confessed that, owing to the discouragement of tennis and even golf (horrible diets) at our Public Schools, fewer of the younger generation play the game. But there is no doubt that it does make things difficult.

ABOUT THE SENIORS

For the first eleven, Owen Hughes did not return to the Colony until the season had been under way for about a couple of months, but he lost no time in finding his form, and, but for a few days at the end of the season, he would have had much the better figures. T. A. Pearce was somewhat disappointing with the bat, for him, of course, and he failed to get going for a long time. The sort of cricket that is or was until last season—thought to be necessary in the excited circles in which he played—does not work too well on a pitch that may always be expected to do the unexpected.

E. R. Duckitt as usual has proved of sterling value and from personal observation I can vouch that he has definitely played much freer cricket than before, scoring at an excellent pace on occasions. His defence was never in doubt.

T. E. Pearce has played more regularly than has been the case for a season or two and he has done very

C.B.A. CRICKET

Analysis By R. Abbit To-morrow

To have won 18 out of 21 cricket matches in one season is a record worthy of any team. It was boasted by Central British School last season as R. Abbit will point out in his interesting analysis of the C.B.A. cricket achievements of 1935-36 which appears in to-morrow's Telegraph.

Figures reveal that the C.B.A. have at least two young cricketers of promise and that the school has one of the best teams in Hongkong at the present time.

well indeed as he had an average of just over twenty for sixteen innings, with only one not out to help him. He definitely played his way into the Interport side, and I imagine it is somewhat of a record to have a father and a son in the same Interport side. Tom Hayward's figures are in no way an indication of his form, as he has never let any consideration about chucking away his cricket prevent him from playing for the needs of his side and most of the knocks he has played have been of the "get fours or get out" type.

MATCH-WINNING BAT

The scores are worked out over all matches, of course, and no separate League figures are given. Of those who played less than the ten innings necessary to qualify, R. D. Gillespie is definitely one of the best match-winning bats in the Colony and his straight, driving is a joy to watch, unless you happen to be the bowler. Grosvenor, a visitor from Australia who stayed long enough and played well enough to make us wish more cricketers of his type would come up and see us some time, got plenty of runs (and even more wickets) and it seemed to me that his style bore a family resemblance to that of Ivor Meinis who played one or two very nice knocks.

Dunkley, it is true, was not out seven times out of thirteen knocks, but I stick to my opinion that if he were given to understand, take place.

DAVIS CUP SENSATION FRANCE LOSES

JUGOSLAVIA'S RECOVERY

Paris, June 8. French tennis to-day received its biggest set-back since Perry and Austin took the Davis Cup away from France in 1933. After leading Jugoslavia by two matches to one, France lost the remaining two singles and was eliminated from the current Davis Cup competition.

There was a palpitating finish. Pallada defeated Destremau in four sets to make the teams two-all and in the concluding match Pucier, after losing the first and third sets, beat Housius by three sets to two. It was a terrific struggle of 45 games, but the Frenchman cracked in the fifth set which he lost at 6-1.

The complete scores as sent by Reuters were: Pallada (Jugoslavia) beat Housius 6-2, 2-6, 6-3, 6-2. Destremau (France) beat Pucier 3-6, 6-2, 7-5, 0-6, 9-7. Borotra and Bernard (France) beat Kukuljevic and Mibc 8-6, 7-5, 4-6, 3-6, 6-2. Pallada beat Destremau 6-1, 1-6, 8-6, 6-4. Pucier beat Housius 3-6, 6-1, 4-6, 7-5, 6-1.

Jugoslavia now meets Austria in the semi-final of the European Zone, the winners contesting either Germany or Ireland.

BADMINTON AT THE K.C.C.

STILL HOLDING THEIR OWN

Siamese Tennis Players Share Honours

The Siamese tennis players now on a visit to Hongkong have still to be beaten by local talent. Yesterday they held their own against the Indian Recreation Club, their champion Prachub, their champion pair beating H. D. Rumljan and A. H. Mader, while Muang and Ranong lost to S. A. Rumljan and M. O. Hoosen.

Subsequently Muang demonstrated that he is a fine singles player by taking a set from S. A. Rumljan, leading him 3-1 in the second stanza. Yesterday's conditions were anything but ideal. Rain fell intermittently during the first two sets and the light was very difficult. Sanoh and Prachub did very well to beat H. D. Rumljan and Mader 6-3, 4-6, 6-3, but S. A. Rumljan and Hoosen had rather a walk-over against Muang and Ranong, winning 6-2, 6-1.

Muang played fast and clever tennis to beat Sirdar Rumljan 7-7 and led 3-1 in a singles contest. Both players had a hard time securing a foothold on the slippery turf and falls were frequent. Muang's decisive volleying and almost unflinching overhead gave him just the necessary edge over Rumljan who was pepped back more than usual to the baseline.

Arrangements for the public exhibitions on Thursday and Friday have been completed. On Thursday S. A. Rumljan will play in a singles while the Tsui brothers will figure in a doubles. On Friday the Rumljan cousins will play for the Colony side at doubles and Tsui Wai-pui at singles.

Admission to the H.K.C.C. on both days will be fifty cents.

This afternoon the Siamese will endeavour to maintain their unbeaten record when they are entertained by Club de Recreo.

Golfing Visit To England

U.S. TEAM TO GO ON TOUR

New York, June 1. A special delegation of golfers from the New York Athletic Club will visit England this summer after the Olympic Games, and will, it is expected, play one-day matches at Sandwich, Sunningdale, Stoke Poges, Wentworth and Moor Park. It is announced in the current issue of The Winged Foot, monthly publication of the New York Athletic Club.

The club's Golf Committee is sending a party of sports enthusiasts to Berlin to see the Olympic Games, and reservations so far cause those handling the tour to believe that the club's party will be the largest of any parties going to Berlin from this country, on tours arranged by various organisations.

The club's Golf Committee, in charge of the tour, is negotiating with British officials regarding the golfing visit to England. The entire party will sail from New York in the Ile de France on July 23.

FIVE MORE MATCHES DECIDED

Re-Arranged Ties

Four of the six outstanding first round matches in the lawn bowls pairs championship of the Colony were decided yesterday, the other two being abandoned owing to rain.

Two Club de Recreo pairs were eliminated, but J. L. Silva and H. A. Alves had an easy passage into the next stage.

PAIRS CHAMPIONSHIP

A. E. Coates and J. Cavanagh beat J. M. Alves and J. J. Basto 31-11. T. Coleman and G. N. Mitchell beat D.C.S. Alves and F.V.V. Ribeiro 23-21. J. L. Silva and H. A. Alves beat F. M. el Arculli and A. Bakar 30-11. W. L. Walker and H. H. Rose beat F. Cheeseman and J. G. Gill 22-17.

UNCOMPLETED MATCHES

C. Rosa Pereira and C. G. Silva were leading A. Steven and Dr. J.A.R. Selby 12-2 on the seventh head when the match had to be abandoned.

J. MacDonald and A. M. Holland were leading F. A. Macdonald and H. F. Rozario 10-7 on the tenth head when rain caused postponement.

SINGLES CHAMPIONSHIP

In the first round of the singles championship F. X. da Silva beat B. E. Maughan 22-9 on the 14th head, while the match between R. P. Phillips and M. J. Henderson had to be abandoned with Phillips leading 10-7 on the tenth head.

REVISED FIXTURE

TWO SINGLES MATCHES PUT OFF UNTIL TO-MORROW

Further re-arrangements have become necessary in the fixtures in the local lawn bowls championships.

The Singles match fixed for yesterday between H. F. Rozario and J. S. Dinnen on the Kowloon Cricket Club green was postponed as Rozario played a Pairs match. This fixture will be played to-morrow afternoon.

As J. Hoosen will be played in a Rinkis Championship match to-day, his Singles game against J. S. Dinnen on the Football Club's green has been postponed until to-morrow.

Green rangers are asked to note the alterations.

Arrangements are being made for a Rinkis match to be played on Kowloon B.G.C. green on Thursday when L. A. Gutierrez, J. M. M. Alves, B. Basto and G. M. P. Remedios will meet L. Glendinning, J. S. Riddell, J. Orem and W. E. Holland.

On Sunday morning, on the Civil Service C.C. green, J. J. Basto, C. M. Silva, C. H. Basto and F. X. Soares will meet R. P. Phillips, G. Graver, E. S. Carter and C. B. Robertson.

ATTRACTIVE TENNIS MATCH SPOILT BY RAIN & THUNDER

GOLDMAN AND MRS. WILSON IN BRIGHT SET OF 11 GAMES

(By "Veritas")

Chinese Recreation Club and U.S.R.C. mixed doubles tennis teams lost their race yesterday against the rain and a threatening thunderstorm, the heavy clouds yielding their watery burdens after two sets had been completed, the match being abandoned at this stage.

Chinese Recreation Club were hosts, and they had good reason to feel strongly on the subject of adverse weather conditions. They found themselves against a team considerably weakened by the absence of two prominent lady players, and with every prospect of pulling off a win. Quite naturally the U.S.R.C. reactions were of an opposite nature. Without Mrs. Kayll, who is suffering from a strained back, and Mrs. Dowling, who has been in hospital for a week with a poisoned foot, things looked rather black for them. They were opposed to a team to whom they could afford to give no concessions, and there is little doubt, despite the useful start made by the visitors, that had the match been completed the Chinese would have won.

THUNDER AND LIGHTNING

While the tennis lasted it was interesting. The light was disconcerting and quite often volleys and drives were made to the accompaniment of thunderclaps and flashes of lightning. In view of these unwelcome inducements, therefore, the 26 games which were played boasted a very creditable standard of tennis.

Chinese R.C. were at full strength, which is to say Tsui Wai-pui, W. Tsui Yung-pui and Chiu Chun-chiu, W. Hung had Mrs. Litton as his partner and Miss Rose Perry teamed up with Tsui Yung-pui.

Mrs. Ashton and Mrs. Mary Holmes deputised for Mrs. Kayll and Mrs. Dowling, the former pairing with M. Sullivan and Mrs. Holmes with Sullivan. Mrs. Nora Wilson played with Goldman.

Mrs. Ashton and Major Wellington scored an astonishing success against Tsui Yung-pui and Miss Perry. Mrs. Ashton was very sound from the baseline, while Major Wellington struck form with his net interceptions. They succeeded in keeping the ball well away from Tsui, and while Mrs. Perry played well, she could not sustain her ground strokes in the face of such a concentrated attack.

On another court Hung and Mrs. Litton won just as easily, against Sullivan and Mrs. Holmes. The winning strokes were particularly prominent at the net.

ELEVEN EXCITING GAMES

On the No. 1 court there was an exciting encounter between Goldman and Mrs. Wilson and Tsui Wai-pui and Mrs. Chiu. The U.S.R.C. couple walked round the opposition for six and accurately and Goldman excelling with his volleys and overhead "kills". During this period Mrs. Chiu was having trouble in timing the ball and tended to lift her head while Tsui could not get the ball clear of the vigilant Goldman.

But after the visitors had run into a 5-2 lead the Chinese couple took a command of the exchanges. A general improvement was noticed with Tsui scoring nicely with sharp volleys and Mrs. Chiu steadying up from the baseline. The result was that they held service and then broke through Mrs. Wilson's delivery. Mrs. Chiu's service followed and they managed to hold that to bring the scores up to five-all. Goldman then won his service, but before Tsui could start his rain fell and the match was abandoned.

There was a lot of bright tennis during these eleven games, and no better shot was seen during the brief time of play than Mrs. Chiu's very accurate and fierce drive by Mrs. Wilson which forced a weak response and resulted in an ace volley for Tsui. This point gave the homesters the vital break-through in the ninth game.

The match will be entirely replayed at a later date.

K.C.C. MATCH OFF

Although a start was made in the mixed doubles match between K.C.C. (2) and Club de Recreo on the former's courts yesterday, the match had to be abandoned.

At the time G. Clarke and Mrs. McCaw were leading A. V. Remedios and Miss Hodello 4-1. A. E. P. Guest and Mrs. Kew were leading C. A. Baretto and Miss A. Remedios 4-2. C. E. Watson and Mrs. Garfield were losing 1-2 to A. V. Gosano and Miss O. Ribeiro.

Angelo where Max is to lead a dance orchestra.

Anell Hoffman, the manager, said his protégé has taken out a card in the Musicians' Union, and has no doubt that he will draw the crowds with his crooning as he used to draw them with his flashing fists.

As a further attraction, the former "Play-boy" champion has developed a capacity for tap dancing which he hopes will augment his chances for success before the footlights. His young brother, Buddy Baer, also will croon.

RUGBY RULES SURPRISE

A Shock and an Explanation

(By J. P. Jordan)

The Rugby Union recently succeeded in starting their affiliated clubs in the agenda of the annual general meeting, to be held on June 20, it was stated that the International Board had instructed their laws sub-committee to consider the change in value of a try by reducing it from three points to two.

Everyone knew of the proposal that a dropped goal should count three points instead of four, and a goal from a mark two instead of three, but that a try should be reduced was too revolutionary.

IN REVOLT

Certain clubs promptly instructed their representatives to vote against this alteration and a lively meeting was promised.

But it was only a misprint after all, a postcard to this effect being sent out some days later. A try will continue to count three points, but the other proposed changes will be put to the vote.

The scrumming law is to be reviewed with the object of improvement, and the definition of a tackle is to be improved to ensure uniform decisions by referees. This means that a player brought to the ground may not pass the ball if it has touched the ground.

The scope of the wing forward is to be further restricted, and pushing a player from behind while sleeping to pick up the ball is to be forbidden. Also, a penalty try will be awarded between the posts and not in a line where the unfair play or interference occurred.

The opinion of the Rugby Union regarding these proposed changes will be placed before the Board in September, and no actual changes in the laws of the game will be made until the Board's meeting in March 1937.

INQUIRY INTO DEATH OF CAESAL MANELLI

Captain Of 1924 Olympic Rugby Team Drowned At Boating Party

Antioch, Cal., June 8. A complete investigation into the circumstances connected with the drowning here of Caesal Manelli, 33, captain of the 1924 Olympic Games Rugby Football championship team, has been ordered by the sheriff of Contra Costa County.

The sheriff said that he was not satisfied with the reports of Manelli's death in the San Joaquin river. He admitted that it looked like an accident, but said that he wanted to make sure.

Manelli died while on a week-end boating party. He sank while swimming, apparently being seized with a cramp, the sheriff said that members of the party told him.

EIGHT-BALL OVER FOR TEST
MATCHES RECOMMENDEDAustralia's
Desire TACTICAL
INVOLVED

(By Donald T. Symonds)

The Australian Board of Control have decided to recommend to the M.C.C. that the eight-ball over be employed in Tests as well as other matches in Australia.

During the last English tour in Australia the six-ball over was used in Test matches. The Board think that the time is now ripe to extend the normal conditions in Australia to all international matches in that country.

As the Australians have so readily agreed to adopt the altered l.b.w. rule, it would be churlish for us to boggle at a small point. But the change is not quite so trivial as it seems at first glance.

In conversation at Lord's, Mr. P. F. Warner, who is perhaps without a rival in experience of international captaincy, admitted to me that he would prefer to see no further extension of the number of balls per over. He pointed out that tactical considerations are involved.

If runs are precious, for example, it is one thing for a captain to hazard an experimental bowler for an over of six balls and another to face the risk of seeing a batsman take toll of eight.

Mr. Warner recalled a match in Australia when E. J. T. Bosanquet was very heavily punished. As captain, Mr. Warner hesitated to give him another over. He did so, and with success, for Bosanquet then took several wickets cheaply. On that occasion there were runs to spare, but that is not always the case. The risk of an eight-ball over, being greater than that of six balls, might be enough to turn the scale of a captain's judgment in making the decision.

NICHOLS'S VIEW

In the heat of Australia, an extra strain would be put upon fast bowlers. I asked M. S. Nichols, the Essex fast bowler, how he would like to bowl overs of eight balls. "I would prefer six in a Test match," was his reply. He emphasised the tense strain of bowling in such games, when a fast bowler puts every bit of his strength and concentration into each delivery. Two extra balls would make a difference.

Obviously, therefore, a change of the kind proposed would require readjustments. Fast bowlers would have to redistribute their expenditure of maximum energy to fit the changed over. A captain would be faced with slightly different tactical problems.

But the same argument applies conversely to the Australians regarding the new l.b.w. rule, so that the difficulties of readjustment are somewhat balanced.

The difficulties involved are by no means negligible, but scarcely so serious as to warrant a refusal. If the Australian Board are anxious to put all games in their country on the same footing.

Here is the "history of the over" in England and Australia.

England—1744, 4 balls; 1880, 5 balls; 1900 to date, 6 balls.

Australia—1867, 6 balls; 1919, 8 balls.

THE BOWLING

It was in bowling that the Club were worst hit by departures, and but for Crowder, Alec Pearce would have had to keep this department of the game going for them with very little support for a great deal of the season. If he has at times been disappointing as a bat, there is no doubt that he has bowled better than he has ever done out here. Dick Ricketts was only with us for a comparatively short portion of the season but he only failed by one wicket to qualify, and would have been second. Duckitt also got nineteen wickets and I am not sure that more use might not have been made of him. Garthwaite picked up a similar number of wickets at a much lower cost but of course he did not play in any of the League games, and, speaking without the book, I fancy he did not have quite the batting against him that most of the others did.

THE FIELDING

On the whole the fielding was good and McNinis is one of the finest catchers of the ball I have ever seen out here, while his return to the wicket is excellent. Dunkley was excellent behind the stumps while Owen Hughes continued to bring off excellent catches in the slips, while Ricketts, at first slip, was amazingly safe.

THE SECOND ELEVEN

The difficulties of the first eleven reacted on the second who had great difficulty in getting out a regular side. Potter and Forbes were the mainstay of the batting while J. Stein on the few occasions on which he played showed that if in regular practice he was probably good enough for the first. But on the whole their season was a very in and out affair, and on the whole the bowling was not strong and the catching at times very indifferent.

Shanghai
Golf Record
BrokenBRILLIANT ROUND
BY RICKETTS

A. Ricketts of Shanghai who has been playing brilliant golf recently, has broken two records, one officially and the other unofficially. Playing on the Hungjao Course on Whit Monday in the medal competition he went round in 71 thereby beating the record of 72 made by N. A. Brown in the China Amateur Championship last October.

On the previous Saturday Ricketts, who was playing splendidly, recorded 60, the lowest score ever made over the Hungjao Course under any conditions. Unfortunately this score was done in a friendly game and, although every ball was holed, it cannot stand as an official record, which can only be made in stroke competition.

These two excellent rounds by Ricketts surely go to show that the saying "Try, Try, Try Again" is more than a proverb. It is an axiom. Ricketts, who is as keen a golfer as anyone could meet, has on many occasions reached the 16th tee of the Hungjao Course with the record within his grasp. But disaster has overcome him each time on the last three holes and his card has been spoilt.

The two scores—first the 71 and secondly the 60—were made up, as follows:

4, 4, 2, 5, 4, 4, 3, 5, 3=34
3, 4, 5, 5, 3, 4, 5, 4, 4=37
His unofficial record score card reads:—
4, 4, 4, 5, 3, 3, 3, 4, 4=34
3, 5, 3, 3, 4, 4, 3, 4, 3=32

DEAD PUTTING

As is to be expected when 70 is broken, deadly putting was a feature of his game. As the Hungjao greens are beginning to improve, a good putter like Ricketts is now able to pick up a shot or two on the greens. Now-a-days two putts a green, once thought a good average even amongst professionals, is not nearly good enough. In the final of the English Close Championship, J. D. A. Langley, the runner-up, averaged less than two putts per green in thirty-two holes. He was beaten 5 and 4 by H. Bentley. The Champion putted so wonderfully that instead of sixty-four putts—the allowance for a scratch golfer—he required only fifty-one putts for the thirty-two holes.

Although the Hungjao Course is extremely short according to present day ideas—it is only 5,705 yards against Hoylake's 7,120 yards where this year's "Open" will be played—it calls for accurate golf and loose shots are usually punished. The Daily Mail Course held recently at Bramshot, England, was of particular interest in proving that a short difficult course can defeat even the best of professionals. Yet of the 400 rounds played only about one per cent of the professionals was under seventy.

One professional lost three balls in the first nine holes and A. J. Lacey of Berkshire, who has been greatly to the fore recently, took 58 for nine holes. Alfred Padgham, the winner, took a 10 in one of the qualifying rounds and Alfred Perry, the Open Champion, has a couple of eights and a couple of sevens in one of his rounds.

INVITED TO VISIT JAPANAs Ambassador
Of Goodwill

Augusta, Georgia.
Mr. Bobby Jones, former world's champion golfer, has been invited by Mr. Hiroshi Salto, the Japanese Ambassador to Washington, to visit Japan as an ambassador of good will.

The invitation was extended indirectly through Mr. William H. Wallace, Jr., of Augusta, who entertained Mr. Salto here during the recent Augusta National Invitation tournament.

Mr. Wallace said that he had posted the invitation to Mr. Jones. In the letter Mr. Salto said: "Convey to Mr. Robert T. Jones our wish, and have the chance of extending to him a royal welcome in Japan. His visit will not only enhance the standard of Japanese golf, but will surely contribute to the international friendship between our two peoples."

Mr. Salto came to the Augusta National tournament principally to see Chick Chin and Torchy Toda, of Japan, play.—Reuter.

Heat Exertion
Calls for Tonic Help.

In these days of high pressure many people try to do too much. It is a great mistake, especially at this time of the year when the thermometer runs high, to tax your vitality to the utmost day after day—often at the expense of adequate rest and sleep—without paying the penalty.

To do this, what you need is a course of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, the blood and nerve tonic which rapidly creates new supplies of red blood, rich in iron and those other elements on which the nerves and tissues of the whole body thrive. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have an unequalled reputation as a restorative of run-down, anaemic, nervous sufferers of both sexes, so if you need tonic help begin a course to-day; you will not be disappointed. THE PRISONER OF SHARK ISLAND
A novelization of
DARRYL F. ZANUCK'S
with WARNER BAXTER,
GLORIA STUART and a
cast of 1000 players

Synopsis
In the prison yard a scaffold
had been erected for those poor
wretches who had been tried and
found guilty of conspiracy in the assassination of President Lincoln. Dr. Samuel Mudd, who set the leg of the murderer, John Wilkes Booth, had been found guilty of conspiracy, although he did not know the man was a murderer. His wife, Peggy, and daughter, Martha, were in despair. Will he be hanged?

CHAPTER SIX

A casual traveller riding down the
pretty, tree shaded street, on that lovely Summer day would have thought that the circus had come
to town.
In reality the occasion for this morbid picnic was the hanging of
the unfortunates who had been
found guilty of conspiracy in the assassination of President Lincoln.
Crude stands had been erected in front of the prison gate. Fish was being fried; hot corn
was being peddled.

It was close to the hour for the execution. At the foot of the scaffold
the drummers were standing,
and on the gruesome instrument of death, the executioners tensely
waited.

Suddenly Peggy Mudd, with Ewing and Martha, appeared in the courtyard. She stood rooted in horror as she realized she had walked into the execution scene.

"I can't be now... not now!"
she cried.
"You got the best place in the yard, lady," and soldier told her.
"Yonder's where they'll come out."

With a convulsive gasp she turned and buried her face in Ewing's shoulder.

"Steady," he said. "There's no
other way to know."

There was a rolling of drums and
the soldiers stood at attention as
the great, double doors at the end
of the yard slowly opened.

At a slow step a squad of four
soldiers appeared, followed by the
one woman conspirator, Mrs. Sur-
rat, bonneted and veiled, walking heavily between two clerymen. Another squad of four soldiers and the drums rolled again.

Standing close to Ewing, her handkerchief in her mouth, Peggy Mudd
watched the doors open for a second time. This time a man walked between the two groups of soldiers.

A third roll of drums
... a fourth
... the great door swung
shut.

Mrs. Mudd turned, white and dazed, to Ewing. "Sam didn't come
out," she whispered. "Oh, do you suppose... does that mean he's going to live?"

The suspense had been too much for her. Merely darkness closed in upon her. Ewing caught her as she swayed and held her tightly.

No one looked at them.
An officer's voice broke the awful
silence. "Present... arms!"

There was a rattle of rifles and metal. Another
... the door of the four troops. A great gasp went up from those assembled, a muffled scream or two,
and then a shout which rose to a
roar outside the prison gate.

CINEMA NOTES

Key Francis, supported by a talented cast, comes to the Queen's Theatre
shortly in the First National production "I Found Stella Parish." The film is based on a powerful drama by John Monk Saunders. Miss Francis
has the intensely emotional role of a woman who toilers from the heights
of success to the depths of despair.
Fighting to hide a terrible page in
her life in order to protect her six
year old daughter from scandal, she
is betrayed by the man she has come to love, and started her on the downward path in her profession.
Separated from her child whom she
placed in hiding with a faithful retainer, her love turned to bitter hatred, she is torn by a terrible emotional stress that eats into her heart
and makes her life a horrible nightmare. The battle of the young journalist, the young man who had
published the story of her life after having won her confidence, to bring back her success and make up for the injustice he had done her leads to an astounding and intensely dramatic climax. Hunter, the English stage and film star, has
the role of the journalist, with Paul Lukas
playing the part of the actress' theatrical manager and suitor of the time she had attained the pinnacle of success. Sybil Jason, the clever child
actress, is seen as Miss Francis'
daughter. Jessie Ralph has the role of the child's nurse and Barton
MacLane is the blackmailing husband. Mervyn LeRoy directed the picture.

"Robin Hood of El Dorado"
By the time Warner Baxter completed his work as Joaquin Murrieta
in Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's epic production, "Robin Hood of El Dorado," showing to-day at the Kings and Alhambra Theatres, he was a veritable walking encyclopedia of information concerning the days of

In a dusky cell inside the prison
Dr. Mudd stood gripping the bars of his cage. In the corridor, a guard and a sergeant had also been listening to the execution.

The green water of the Atlantic Ocean had been displaced by the blue of the Gulf Stream. A flat calm left its surface glassy smooth.
The brilliant tropical sun beat down pitilessly on a U.S. Army transport,
three days out of Hampton Roads.
On the vessel's foredeck, stretched
out with their chains draped around them, lay a prostrate group of hag-garded creatures, unshaven and garb-ed in tattered remnants of military uniform.

"Land on the starboard bow,"
shouted the look-out.

The prostrate huddle stirred.
Painfully they rose to peer over the bow rail. Only a thin, scarcely visible cloud-like line was visible.
But as they continued to stare,
there came from the sea, while the vessel drew nearer, a grim, forbidding fortress, starkly white and
gleaming in the tropical sun.

"Well, boys, there she is—Shark Island!"

Samuel Alexander Mudd, lately
doctor of medicine in the County of Charles, in Maryland, surveyed
from pain wracked eyes the forbidding spectacle before them. Here,
was he to spend the rest of his life.

And his physician's knowledge told
him that, behind those fever-struck
walls, that might be a short sentence.

Fort Jefferson, Dry Tortugas.
Sixty-five miles out in the Gulf of Mexico, place of living dead.

The transport drew alongside the
pier, jutting out from the forbidding seawall. Negro troops, detailed as guards, trooped down to the
dock, to take over the prisoners,
who were herded down the gang-
plank, their chains clanking with each
painful step.

As the condemned men crossed
the bridge, which was the only entrance to the prison, one of their number, a filthy rogue, grinned
toothlessly at the soldiers and jerking
his thumb over his shoulder, mutter-
ed:

"That's him, soldiers!"
The Negro stared curiously at Dr.
Mudd, who unwary of their interest,
shuffled warily along in his chains.

But suddenly his face lighted with
happy astonishment.

He had recognized Buck, the negro
who had worked for him.

"Why Buck?" he exclaimed.
"Move on, white man," said Buck,
with no sign of recognition, his expression, like the others, hard and cruel.

Dr. Mudd stiffened, but after a moment of hesitation he went on.
"Fresh meat, Sarge," said the Corporal. "Ready for 'em?"

Yawning, Sergeant Rankin looked up. "Sho, 'em in."

He came around to the front of
his desk, and leaning on it, glanced
through the papers.

Fourth in line, Dr. Mudd gazed steadily at Rankin. He did not expect sympathy from the man who had aided in his arrest, but his was
a familiar face and in this horrible
place there was a certain sad pleasure
even in recognizing an old enemy.

"Name?" said Rankin to the first
man.

"William Dugger."

The old Wild West. Much of the picture was made in the remote
wilderness of the "mother lode"
country of Central California, the
region in which millions were taken from the ground in the heyday of
the gold boom, and where Murrieta
led his wild men in raids on the scattered American settlements. History dies hard in this wild country.
Living there to-day are scores of
grizzled veterans whose family histories are indelibly associated with
the winning of the West. And from these oldsters, Baxter obtained information about the gold rush days
that never has been written into history stories of intimate happenings in
the lives of their parents, stories of stark tragedy, of hilarious comedy, of vivid romance that flamed in those far gone days. Much of this was incorporated into the picture, "Robin Hood of El Dorado." For "in the words of William Wellman, director,
it was "too good to pass up." Reel-life happenings were dramatized and transferred into action by the 200 men
and women from Hollywood who,
with the assistance of more than a thousand residents of the gold belt,
re-enacted events that made history
in the days of '49. Appearing with Baxter in the picture, produced by commercial aviation, Pat O'Brien as
the superintendent of flyers at a Western airport where Stuart Erwin
is employed as a pilot, seeks the
services of Cagney a spectacular
aviator to join them. Cagney is a devil with the ladies. He makes himself as the ladies, He makes himself as the pretty girl hostess, played
by a new comer, June Travis, whom

"Huh," leanting his paper. "Murder and arson. Life imprisonment." Suddenly he shouted, "Get moving,
you lumps!"

"Next."
"Otto Lehrman," said the second
prisoner.

"Description, forty years," Rankin
read with relish. He grinned.
"You'll never make it, Otto," he said
with mock sympathy. "You're too old.
Get moving!"

Suddenly he saw Dr. Mudd. Putting the papers down, on his desk
he came forward, pushing the next
man from the line, and gazed at the doctor with astonishment and seeming pleasure.

"Well, if it isn't my old friend, Dr.
Mudd. Dear Dr. Mudd!"
With mock cordiality Rankin extended his hand. After a moment's hesitation, Mudd took it. Rankin
tightened his grip.

"And so, all they gave you was
life, eh?"

With a sudden jerk he pulled the doctor forward and at the same time
ing him.

"Couldn't hang you, eh?" he sneer-ed. "Well, by Jadas, you're going to live, eh? You had better 'm through with you!"

Hauling off, he booted the recom-
bent man.

Then, taking the papers from his desk, he snarled, "Next."
Rising from the floor, Mudd wiped
his face with his handkerchief, notic-
ing to his annoyance that his hand
was shaking. Although he had made
up his mind that as a prisoner he
must expect to receive humiliating
treatment, and he had resolved to endure it patiently—for it would do
no good to rebel—still he had not
expected to be so cruelly degraded.

Despite his determination to be a
stole, his nerves were badly jangled
by the tropical sun, streaming down on them, the little group of forgotten men were conducted to the big
iron gate through which they had entered the prison yard.

Standing there, their wrists and
ankles bleeding from the weight of
the chains, they listened apathet-
ically to Sergeant Rankin.

"Before you go any further," he
glared at them, his venomous gaze
resting longest on Dr. Mudd, "I want you to listen to me. Because I know exactly what you're thinking, every mother's son or you. You're fingering on whether you're going to be able to break out of here."

Grinning from one to the other,
he declared, "Well, we've got a little way here of putting thoughts like
that out of your heads... follow
me!"

As the gate swung open, he bowed elaborately at Dr. Mudd.

"You first, Doctor!"
On the other side of the gate the
prisoners were lined up along the
bank of what appeared to be a moat.

Pointing down at its dark waters,
the Sergeant continued acidly, "When ever you get along, get to digging down
on breaking out of here, I just want you
to give a little thought to this moat.
It runs all the way around the island.
It's 75 feet across and 30 feet deep.
And you know what we keep in it?
We keep cats. Nice little pets. We cut more of 'em in that moat than you could count. And sometimes we feed 'em, but not often!"

What are these "pets"? To-morrow
Dr. Mudd discovers the real horrors of "Shark Island." Don't miss any
chapter of this extraordinary story,
which is based on actual history.

Patrolmen Who Face Burglary Charges

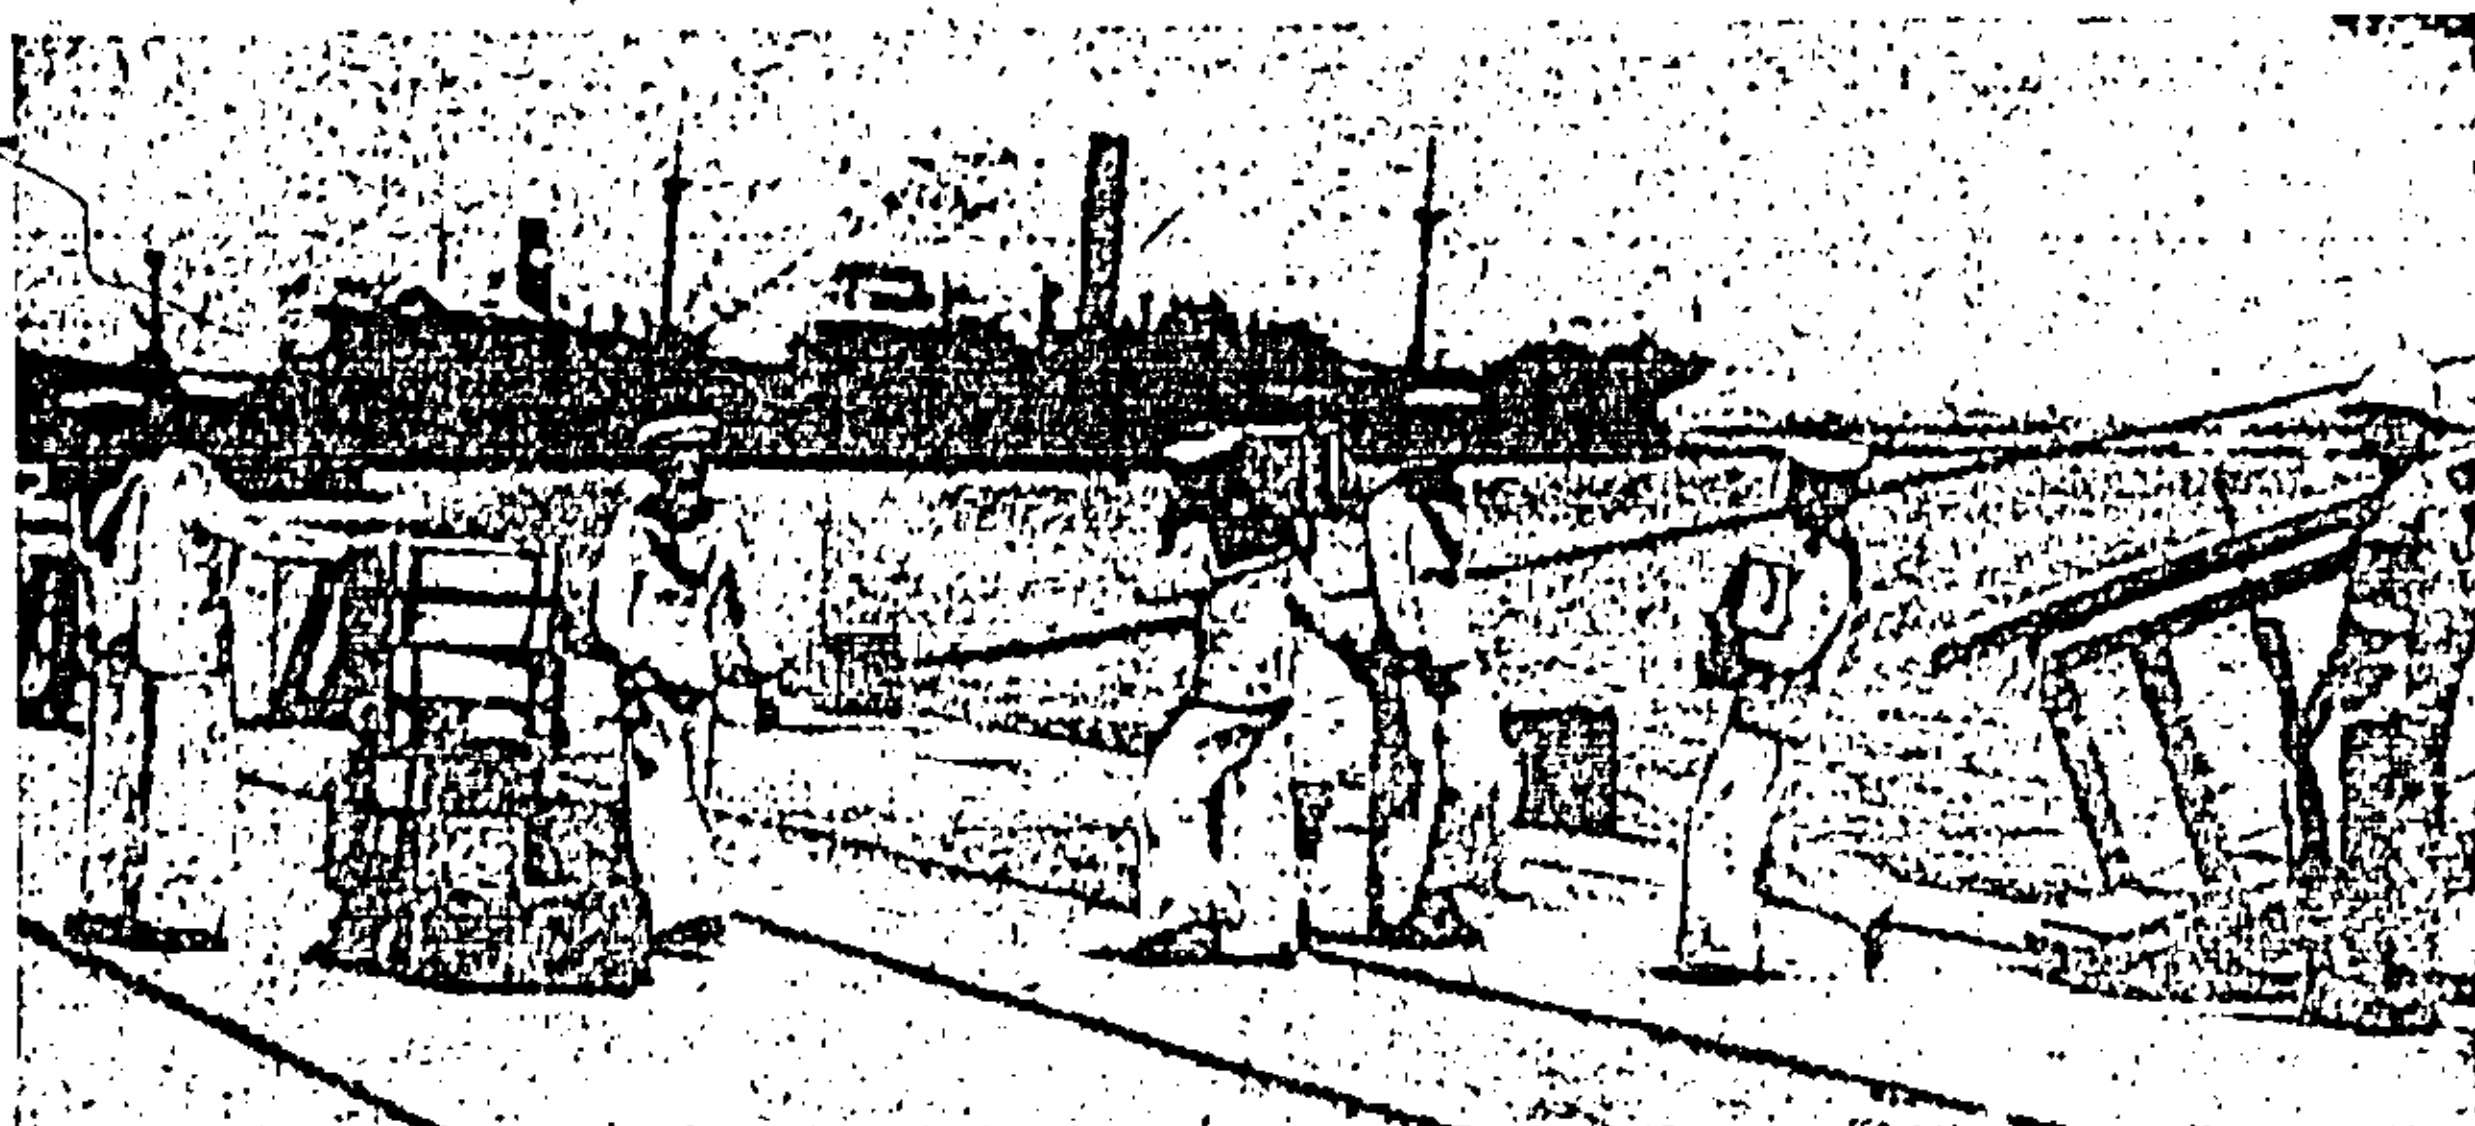

THOMAS MILLER.

SIDNEY HINSON

JOHN FARRELL.

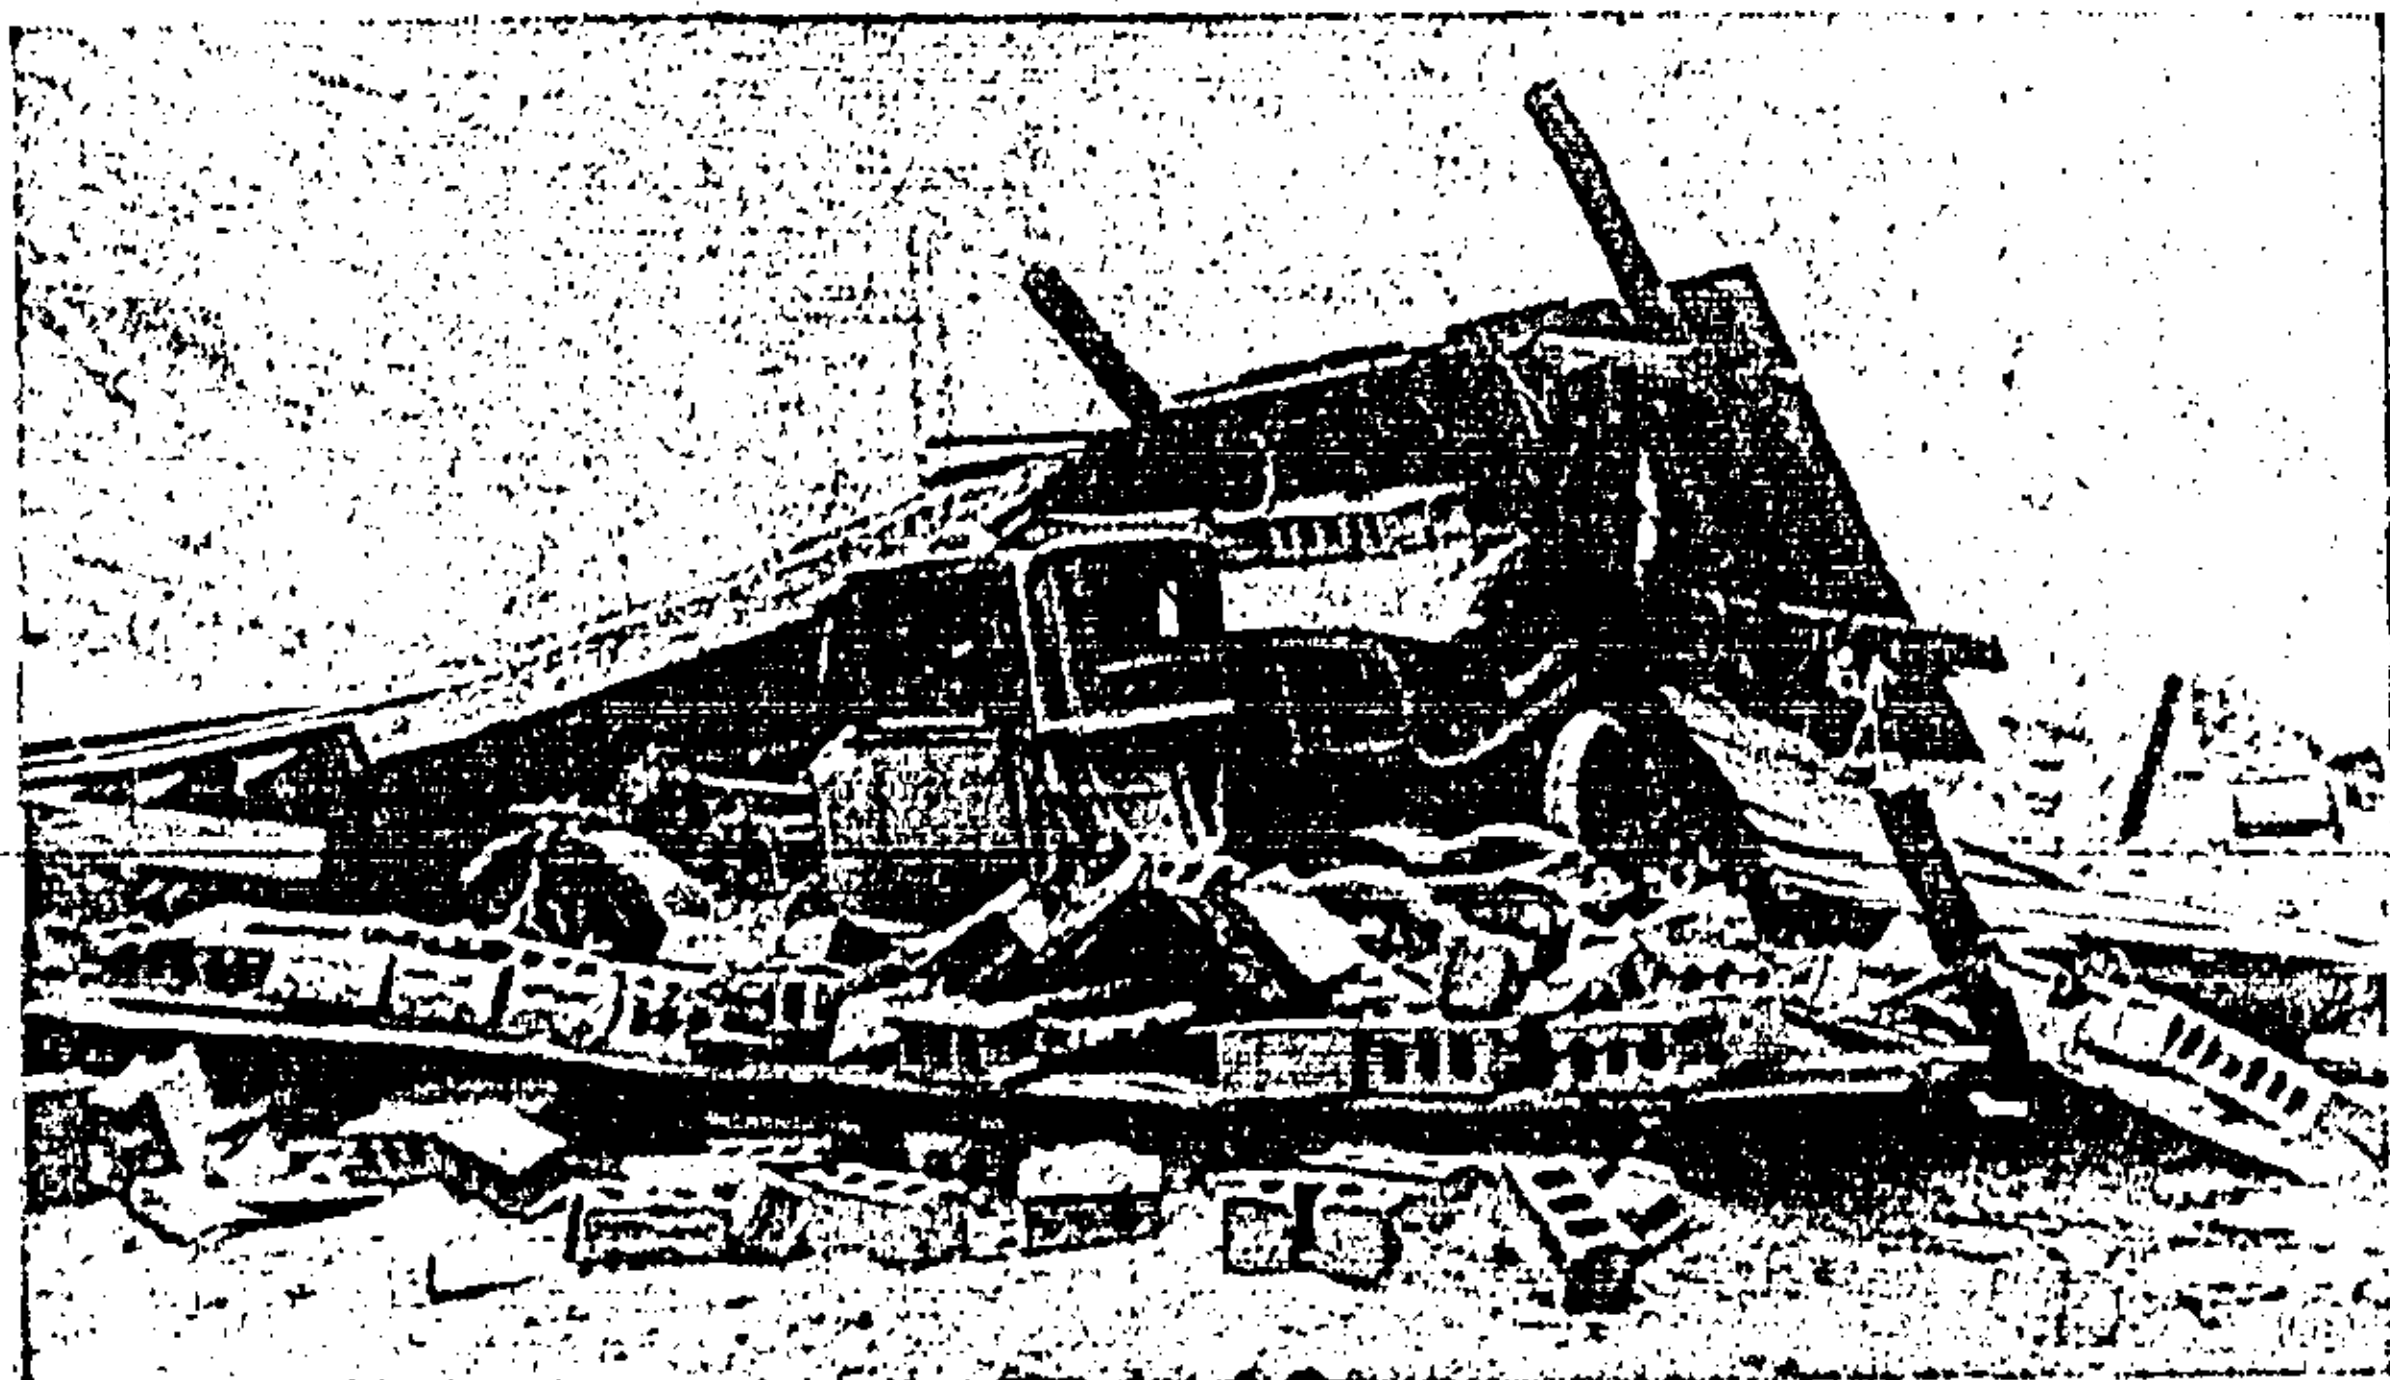

Right in the midst of an investigation into the incomes of San Francisco policemen, three patrolmen were gaoled as alleged burglars. Charges assert they looted—of all places—one of the drug stores owned by Dr. Thomas Shumate, one of the members of the Police Commission. Although they were charged with burglary and released on bail, no official complaint was immediately signed.

ABABA LEGATION*MAJOR CHARTER'S
130 SIKHS READY

Did Their Job"*WITHIN these last few weeks of the sealing of the fate of Abyssinia, fame has carried the name of a British soldier round the world.It is that of Major William Forster Charter, M.C., officer in command of the Indian troops forming the guard at the British Legation at Addis Ababa.Everywhere is told the heart-stirring story of the gallant deeds performed by this guard in rescuing the occupants of the American, Belgian, and Turkish Legations from the wild tribesmen;
and the universal praise has been echoed in the House of Commons.Mr. Eden has spoken of the "splendid work" of the guard, declaring "These troops have saved a large number of foreign lives."Now that the full facts are known, it is clear that the situation caused by the flight of the Emperor was as desperate as any that had arisen in Africa since General Gordon was trapped in Khartum more than half a century ago.Those who know Major Charter were confident that he was a man to be relied on in a "tight corner."Every man among the detachment of 130 Sikhs of the 5th/14th Punjab Regiment he had with him
would have followed him to the death; and he and everybody else in the British Legation knew it.Major Charter is tall, lean, handsome, and 42. He was born in Cumberland. During the war he served in the 2nd Scottish Rifles, and was commissioned in 1915. He joined the Indian Army in 1918.Sent from IndiaThe order to proceed to Addis Ababa came to him when he was in Poona last summer. His wife was then with him, but later she returned to England. The officers of the guard under him are Capt. G. A. E.
Keene, Lieut. R. A. Anthony, and Capt. T. E. Palmer, R.A.M.C.Major and Mrs. Charter have two children—Elizabeth aged 12, and William, aged 7—both of whom were born in India. They are now being educated in England.A press representative recently saw Mrs. Charter at Datchet, near Windsor, where she is living with her mother."A Soldier's Wife"Although she was obviously tremendously proud of her husband, Mrs.
Charter was reluctant to express her feelings."You see," she said, "I am a soldier's wife—and soldiers' wives do not like talking about their husbands' service. At any rate, I do not.""My husband and his men have done their job—and it seems, have done it exceedingly well; and,
naturally, I am very glad.""The Sikhs are magnificent soldiers and splendid men. All of them.
Everybody knew they would be ideal for the work at Addis. I know my husband is very proud of them."Mrs. Charter is hoping that her husband will come home on leave
later, and afterwards she will return with him to India.£30,000
AWARD SET
ASIDEThe Court of Appeal recently allowed, with costs, the appeal of Mr. Herbert George Latilla, a financier, from the judgment of Mr.
Justice Charles awarding £30,000
damages to Mr. Edward John Way,
a mining engineer.Damages were awarded for breach of agreement to give Mr. Way a profit interest in gold concessions in West Africa which he had introduced to Mr. Latilla.The Court refused leave to appeal to the House of Lords.Lord Justice Slesser, giving judgment, said Mr. Justice Charles had accepted the evidence of Mr. Way in preference to that of Mr. Latilla, which he spoke of as "prevaricating,
shuffling and in some cases patently untrue."IMPERFECT RECOLLECTIONThe divergence between the witnesses, Lord Justice Slesser added, might well be due to imperfection of recollection. Some of the matters that arose—whether Mr. Latilla knew that Mr. Way's room lay in a certain place in the building—did not possess
the importance attributed to them by the judge."We must add that we think the treatment which Mr. Latilla and some other witnesses received from the judge was hardly calculated to promote the discovery of the real truth."Lord Justice Romer and Mr. Justice Finlay concurred.GAOL FOR MASTER
CROOK*£5,000 FRAUD ON ENGLISHMANEdward Michael Cavendish, alias Edward O'Reilly, an international crook, born in Brisbane,
was sentenced to four years' imprisonment at Nice recently.Cavendish, who lived at one time in Dublin, was found guilty of obtaining by false pretences
£5,000 from Thomas Belcher, a Liverpool business man.He was a leader of a gang of international confidence tricksters who awarded English visitors to the Riviera in the past two years out of over £20,000.William Ferguson, another Australian, who was Cavendish's accomplice, was sentenced to five years' imprisonment by default.BRITISH HOSPITAL BOMBEDThe bombing of the British Red Cross unit at Quorom, Ethiopia, was repeated on three successive days, and the result was the almost complete demolition of the unit's tents and equipment.
A number of patients and attaches were killed and wounded in the bombings, some of the result of which are pictured in the accompanying scenes. At TOP, tents of the British Red Cross ambulance station are seen in background in the scene, that shows members of the outfit putting a wounded victim of the air raid on a litter.
At BOTTOM, the smouldering ruins of a hospital tent that caught fire and was destroyed. Pictured in BACKGROUND is a truck of the unit that was damaged by concussion of an exploding bomb."Tax-Dodging"
Bill*LONG CLAUSES TO TIGHTEN UP
COLLECTIONThe Chancellor of the Exchequer's Budget proposals for dealing with attempts to evade the payment of income tax by settling money on children for educational purposes, by investment companies, and by the transfer of income to persons abroad are explained at length—though in technical terms—in the text of the Finance Bill just issued.Of the 29 clauses of the Bill four are intended to stop "tax-dodging,"
and they form more than a third of the whole measure.It is provided that any income paid to or for benefit of a child by virtue of a settlement shall be treated as the income of the person who settles
the income for all the purposes of the Income Tax Acts.Avalanche Kills Injured
Woman*SWEPT AWAY AFTER FALL INTO CHASMWhile lying injured at the bottom of an alpine chasm, a woman has been swept to death by an avalanche.M. George Couttet, the well-known guide, was crossing the Alguille du Midi, Mont Blanc, when he saw a party composed of two women, Meda Kosankowski and Illotha Habrecht, both of Danzig, with a guide, entering a crevasse below him. One of the women, Mlle. Kosankowski, slipped and fell 450 feet into a chasm.M. Couttet ran to the spot and found faint cries from the depths.
Before he could fetch help, an avalanche swept down the mountain, through the crevasse, and carried away the injured woman. The body was recovered.CEILING

Shillong, Assam, June 8.
Exceptionally heavy rains have caused flooding in many parts of Upper Assam, where fifty villages have been inundated.
Crops have been destroyed and a large number of houses washed away. Casualties at present are thought to be small, but thousands are homeless. The Government is organising relief.—Router-Bulletin Service.

ANNOUNCING THE KING'S ACCESSION TO FOREIGN COURTS

THERE is likely to be a busy time ahead for the Duke of York, for it is said that the King intends to commission him with the discharge of many of the duties which were normally the task of His Majesty when he was Prince of Wales.

In fact, the Duke, as Heir Presumptive, will be "Prince of Wales" in all but name.

It is probable, too, that the Duke will next year receive the King's command to pay a series of visits to foreign monarchs to announce to them his brother's accession to the Throne.

This is a formality still followed by the countries which adhere to a monarchical regime.

With this project in view there are likely to be several additional appointments to the Duke's staff.

Another Equerry

These may include an additional equerry, a Naval, Military, and Air Force A.D.C., as well as a secretary to assist Commander Harold Campbell, who is now the Duke's only private secretary.

There will be increasing demands on the King's time as the Coronation approaches, and it is inevitable that he will frequently have to delegate his duties to one of his brothers.

It is stated that it was with this contingency in mind that the King included in his message to Parliament the suggestion of further provision for the Duke of York.

It stands at present at £23,800, but by the recommendation of the Select Committee on the Civil List he will receive an additional £25,000, which for the time being will come from the revenues of the Duchy of Cornwall.

NEW COINAGE FOR THE CORONATION

You will never see an Edward VIII. coin with the date 1936 on it, for the new coinage is not expected to be in circulation until a few weeks before the Coronation.

Designing, selection and final striking of a new coin occupies many months. Models must be made of the new Sovereign's head and the King is at present posing for these.

During the next few months the Advisory Committee of the Royal Mint are to consider the huge number of designs already submitted.

It is understood that no radical changes are expected in the new coinage, in spite of recent agitation.

As at Jubilee time, a number of special Coronation coins will be minted next year. There will probably be four pieces, £5, £2, £1 and the half-sovereign.

New stamps are not expected until after the new coins.

BUTTER FROM JAPAN

20 COUNTRIES SHIP TO BRITAIN

ONE WAY TO KEEP HAIR SHORT

A novel method of keeping the hair short was suggested at the International Congress of Physical Medicine in London by Professor W. T. Astbury, of Leeds University.

"Just as human hair will stretch to twice its original length, so will it contract," he said. "If you want to avoid the barber expose your head to X-rays for six hours and then for two hours to steam. The hair will contract to two-thirds its original length."

Lord Dawson of Penna, speaking on "Physical Education," said physical education and games should be regarded as complementary.

"To-day the unit is preserved. The public conscience demands it," he added. "There is a strong effort to save men the weakening of physique apt to result from unemployment. Recreative physical training makes that effort."

The National Farmers' Union states that the recent arrival of a shipment of 50 tons of Japanese butter, following sample consignments during the past year, indicates that when her dairy herds have been sufficiently increased Japan may become a serious competitor in the British butter market.

The Union points out that in the past few years the United Kingdom has become the "dumping ground" of the world's surplus butter, more than 20 countries regularly sending supplies.

The Japanese dairy industry receives Government assistance in several ways. Part of the expenses of importing foreign-bred cattle is paid by the Government, and producers are able to use, free of charge, the animals kept at a Government livestock experimental station for breeding purposes.

REAR OF HOUSE FALLS INTO ABYSS NO TRACE OF BODIES

The rear portion of two houses in Merton-road, Norwich, a district notorious for subsidences owing to superannuated workings of an old chalk pit, collapsed recently and disappeared in a hole estimated to be 80ft. deep.

An elderly man and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Hall, aged 74 and 71 respectively, were sleeping in the rear portion of one of the houses, and were swallowed up with their bed in the abyss. They were not found.

The subsidence occurred an hour after midnight. A rumble and then a crash caused Mr. Ben Bainham, of Merton-road, to rush from his front bedroom to pitch his ladder into space. As he fell into the hole he shouted a warning to his wife and daughter, and saved them from a similar experience.

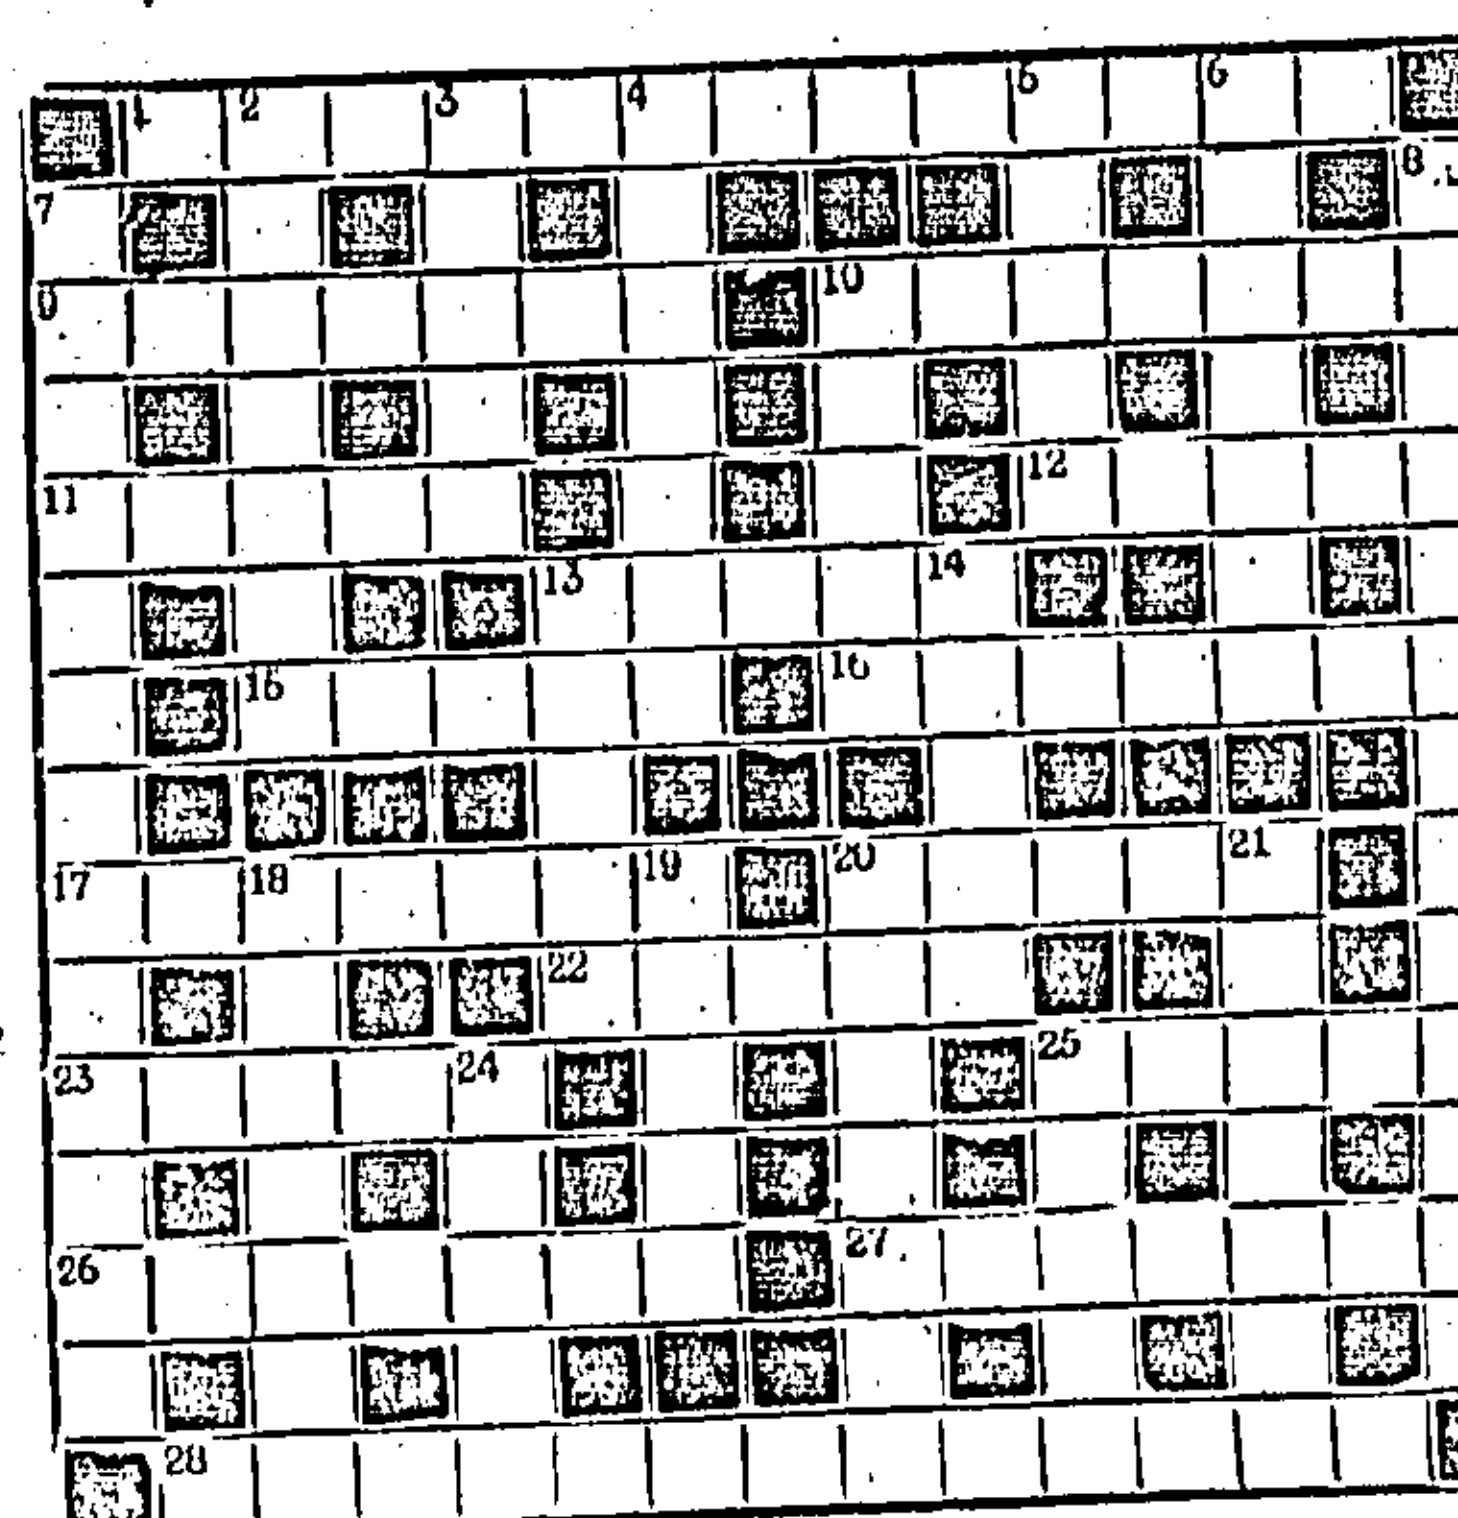

Later, when rescuers arrived, Mr. Bainham was found to have had a remarkable escape, for after falling 20 feet his further descent was checked by a ledge at the cost of a fractured ankle.

Mr. and Mrs. Hall were the father and mother of Mrs. Bainham. Desperate efforts were made to find them, and tunnels were dug at different angles in the debris.

Though the whole of the rear of the Bainham's house has disappeared, the front is standing as though nothing happened.

In the case of the second house, Mr. Thomas Humphrey and his wife had remarkable escapes. Their bedroom was affected by the subsidence, and their bed was found to be standing within 3 feet of the edge of the cavity.

Stork to Visit Quins' Mother?

"No, No!" Protests Doctor Dafoe

THE telephone rang one night in the home of Dr. Allan Roy Dafoe, of Callander, Ontario, the man who brought the Dionne quintuplets into the world and kept them there.

"London, calling Dr. Dafoe," said the operator. A press representative said: "Dr. Dafoe, we have just received a cable saying Mrs. Elzire Dionne is expecting another baby on June 15—a successor to the quins."

Dr. Dafoe spluttered. Splutter heard in London.

"Mrs. Dionne, another baby! Sir, you are mistaken. It's ridiculous, not true, it is... Who says she's having another baby?"

"The cable is from New York," he said. "It states that Mrs. Dionne has had to turn down a Hollywood offer because she expects the baby on June 15."

"Hollywood... Ah, that place! Do not believe it. I WOULD KNOW, wouldn't I, if Mrs. Dionne were having a baby?"

"SMILING AND HAPPY" I brought those five all right, didn't I? Mrs. Dionne would have told me the very first thing. Why, I saw her only last week walking in our village here.

"She was not expecting a baby or babies—that I can tell you. I am a doctor—I should know. She was smiling and happy. We talked about the five. What's that you say? How are they?"

"Oh, fine. Having special pre-school training, and liking it. Those babies, they will be lovely girls, I can tell you. Yes, there'll be a lot of young men hanging around here in a year or so."

"But as for another, no, it's not so. You must not believe Hollywood—that place! You know my views."

"Once before," he went on, "they said Mrs. Dionne was having another baby or, maybe, twins or something. I don't know. All wrong."

"Mrs. Dionne is wonderful, we all know it—but another baby, NO!"

"Could I speak to Mrs. Dionne?" "Sir," replied Dr. Dafoe, "Mrs. Dionne lives along the lane. If she were here she wouldn't come to the telephone. Why, I think she'd sooner have this other baby you talk about than telephone."

Sanctions Losses

NO COMPENSATION TO BE GRANTED

Mr. Runciman, President of the Board of Trade, announced in the House of Commons recently that the Government had decided that compensation could not be granted for losses attributable to the sanctions imposed against Italy.

"I am ready," he added, "to consider any information or proposals which the Association of British Importers from Italy may care to put forward in writing, but, as at present advised, I do not think that a deputation would serve any useful purpose."

BLOOD TEST FOR CANCER

NEW CONFIRMATION OF BENDIEN METHOD

RESEARCH RESULTS

It has been constantly maintained in the London Morning Post, despite serious criticism from certain quarters, that the method of testing the blood to make a diagnosis of cancer, devised by Dr. S. G. T. Bendien, was of considerable value.

In the modified form suggested by Dr. Cronin Lowe in this country about three years ago, the Bendien test is apparently capable of yielding valuable information, and a recent report from workers in Birmingham, published in the "Quarterly Journal of Medicine," shows that 75 per cent. of correct diagnosis can be obtained for patients with cancer, and for patients without cancer, but suffering from some other disorder which has given rise to the suspicion of the disease.

Indeed, for this latter type of patient the test was especially useful, for it proved to be right when all the other evidence was pointing strongly to cancer, and yet detailed examination of (tumour and other material obtained at operation or after death showed no trace of cancerous changes.

In all 470 specimens of blood serum have been examined, but only 296 of the results are used for the purpose of the final statistical analysis, since the research workers concerned set very high standards of proof of the absence of cancer, and thus the results as regards the value of the Bendien test as performed on the blood specimens are of great importance.

Of 175 patients definitely suffering from cancer the test was correct in 131 cases and incorrect in 44. In the remaining 121 cases of patients not suffering from cancer, the test gave the right diagnosis in 90 and was wrong in 31.

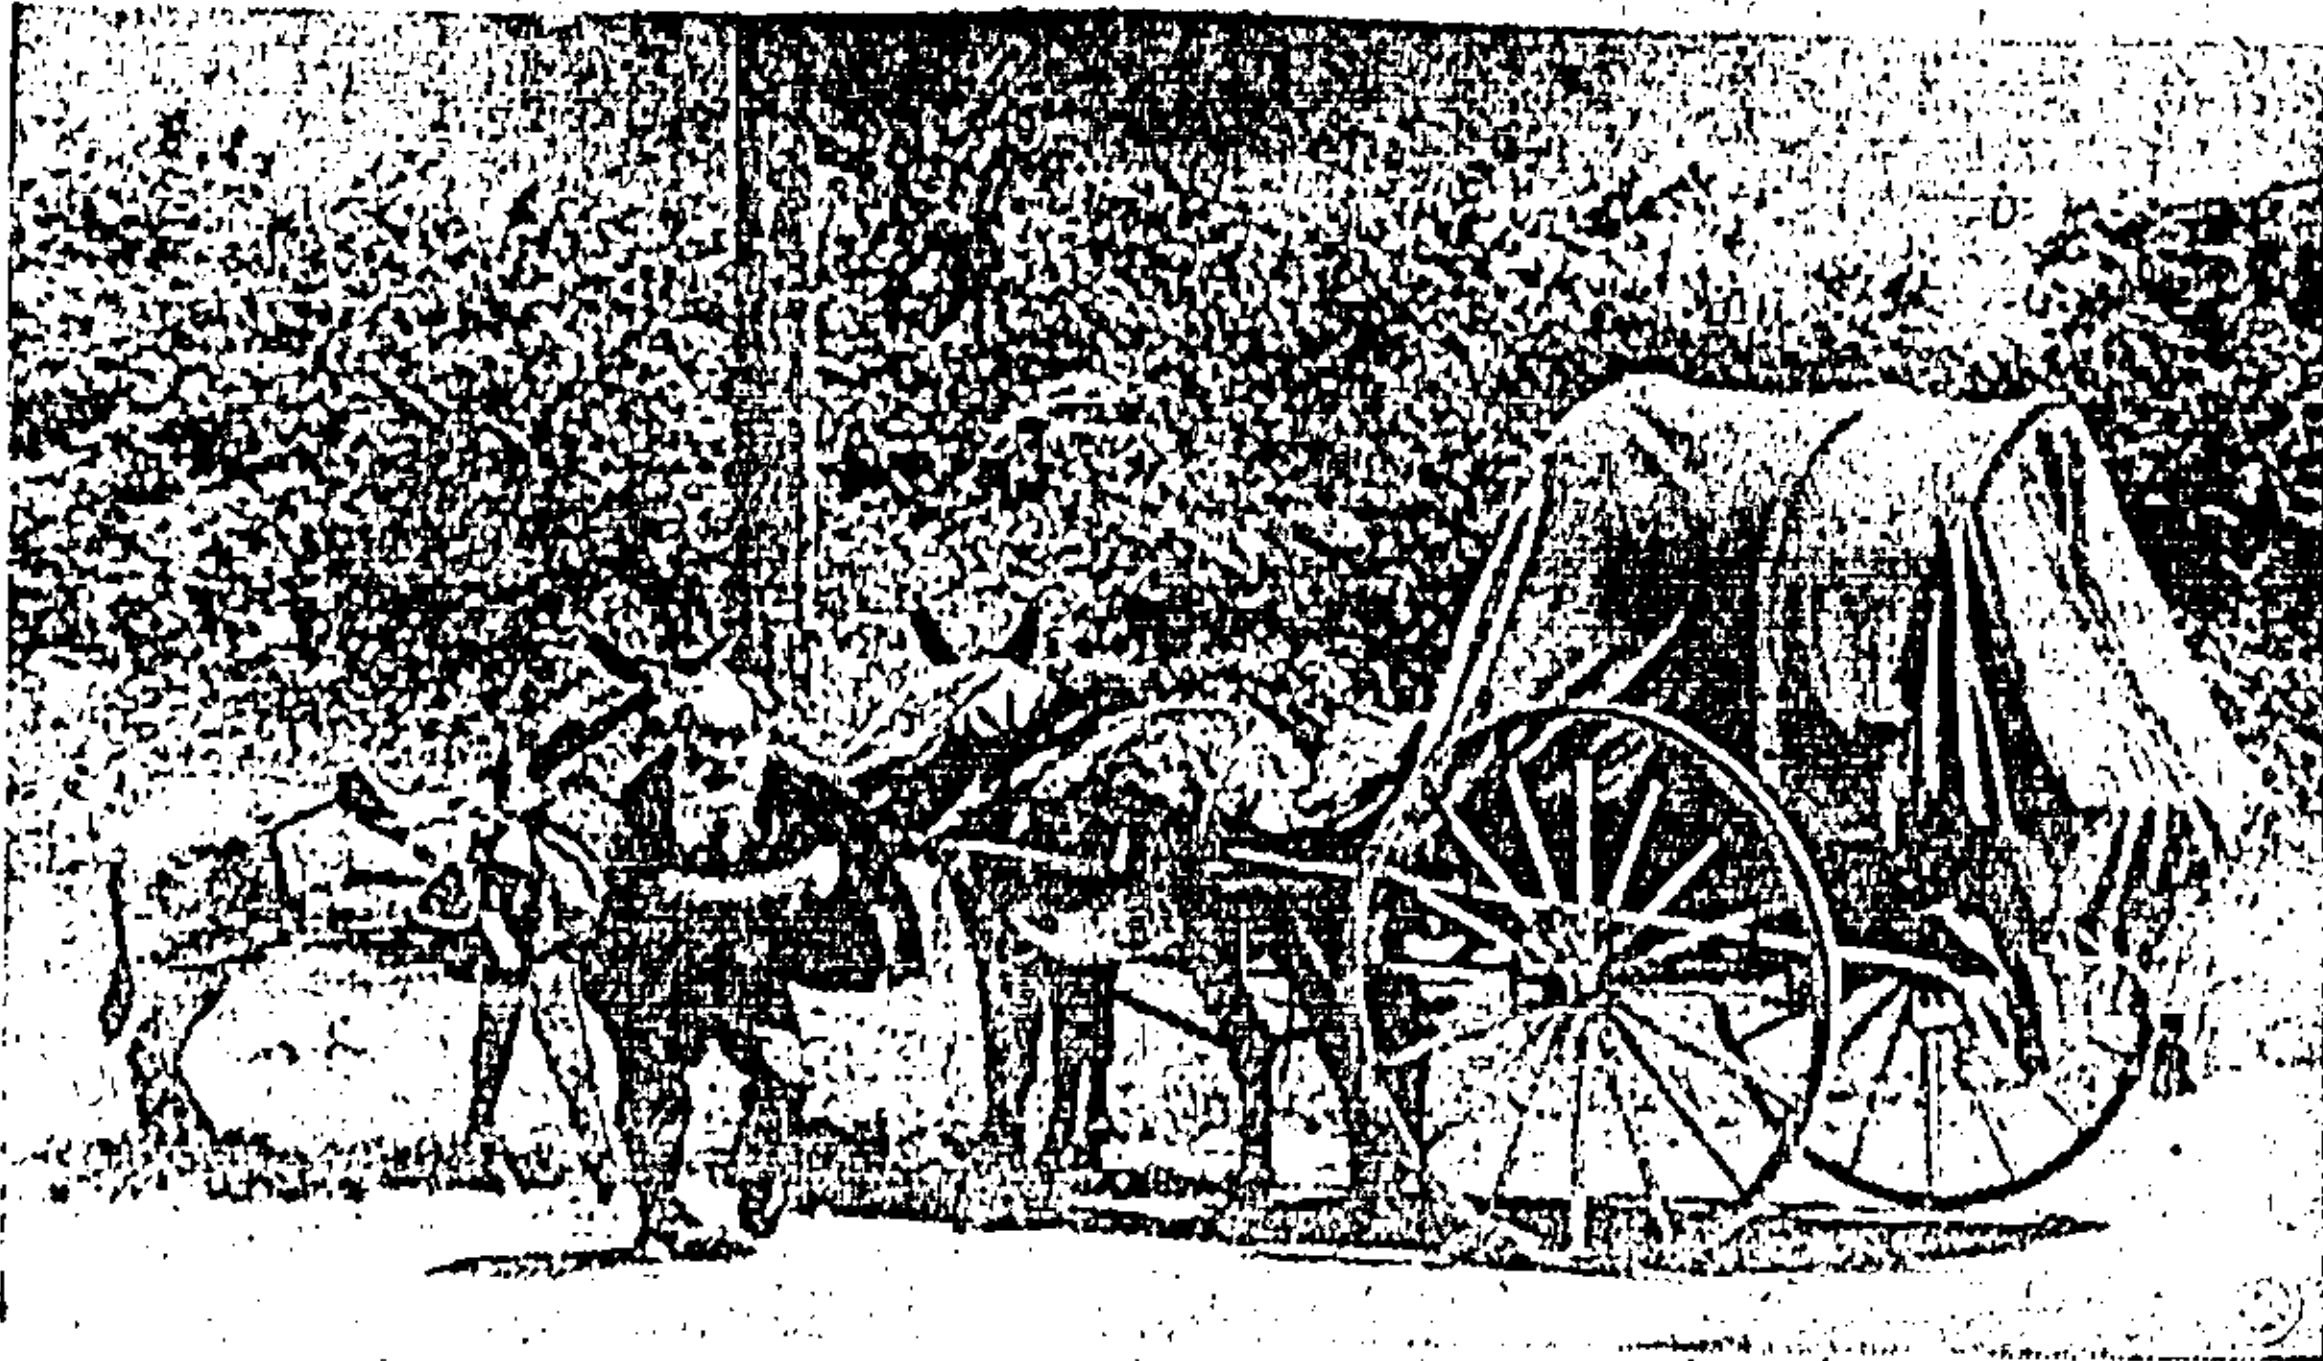

POINTS OF INTEREST

A more detailed analysis of the results obtained brings out several points of interest. It is known that in tuberculosis certain changes occur in the blood which may interfere with the Bendien test, but in no instance in the Birmingham series was a misleading diagnosis made in a patient known to have tuberculosis.

Another point made is that 10 patients suffering from what was finally accepted as a non-cancerous condition, yet giving a positive Bendien test, had in fact such disorders as ulcers in the stomach, where the possibility of very early cancerous change cannot be altogether excluded.

Age was also a point which had some influence on the results, for in the younger patients the Bendien test gave much more accurate answers both for cancer and non-cancer cases. In other words, the test began to show more errors for non-cancer

70-YEAR-OLD KILLER ATTACKS CAMERAMAN

When Dr. J. J. Gattacio, a San Jose, Cal., dentist took this picture he did not know it would cost him his life. And when Peter Voss, the 70-year-old prospector, attacked Dr. Gattacio he did not know that the doctor's photograph would provide the State authorities with the evidence necessary to a conviction for murder. Confronted with the above photograph, Voss confessed he slew Dr. Gattacio because he would not pay for a snapshot of the picturesque old gold hunter.

NATIONAL AIR "POOL"

FORMING RESERVE OF PILOTS

Staffs of business houses are invited to form a "pool" of trained air pilots, who would be available in emergency as a second reserve to the Royal Air Force. The National League of Airmen, who have drawn up a scheme for this object, has already received no fewer than a response that success appears to be assured. The Air Ministry has expressed approval.

The scheme depends upon the willingness of business houses to subsidise their flying members at the rate of £19 each for the first year, and upon the success of the members in obtaining and renewing their "A" licences. In respect of these the Air Ministry pays a subsidy of £25 each in the first place and £10 for annual renewals.

The members will have to pay for training for a week for the first year, and thereafter for a week. Each club will be limited to fifty members in the first year, and the members must be willing to keep in training for four years. They must be between 17 and 30 years of age.

The scheme will be put into effect simultaneously in London, Birmingham, Manchester, Edinburgh, and other big towns. Immediate response came from the Midland Bank with 300 candidates, and in this case training will begin in the next few days. A difficulty in such cases is that of selecting fifty first year members out of so large a number, but more than one club could be formed.

The proposals are contained in detail in a booklet obtainable from the National League of Airmen, 39, Grosvenor-square, S.W.1. Briefly, this shows that each club shall acquire two aeroplanes in the first year, and one in each succeeding year, and that ten such clubs shall form a group with an aerodrome of its own.

patients after middle-age when the tendency to cancer is greater and very early cancer might be present unnoticed apart from the non-cancerous condition for which the test was undertaken.

The tests made in Birmingham had to be carried out without the complicated apparatus which has been used by other workers and this again makes the results obtained of even greater value.

In view of the apparent hostility to the Bendien test which has been displayed by certain authorities, it is of interest that the research work here described has been carried out under the auspices of the Birmingham branch of the British Empire Cancer Campaign.

HUGE ROMAN HOARD UNEARTHED

THOUSANDS OF COINS IN IRON-BOUND BOX

CENTURIES ago, in some time of trouble, a dweller in Durnovaria—the Roman Dorchester—buried his treasure in his garden and fled.

There it remained untouched for 1,700 years, until last month, when a workman engaged in clearing a site for building in South Street, drove his pick into an iron-bound box.

He was amazed to see hundreds of bronze coins come flowing out. Colonel C. D. Drew took charge of the excavation work.

BRONZE BOWL AND URN In addition to the box, which was lightly packed with thousands of coins, he found a bronze bowl filled with coins and a beautiful bronze urn.

The coins are of the Third Century A.D. They were known as Antoniniani and for the most part are two-denarii pieces. Heads of several different rulers appear on the coins, the majority of which are bronze with a surface wash of silver.

This type of coinage was demonetised by the Emperor Diocletian at the end of the third century and became valueless. Colonel Drew believes that they were buried after their devaluation by the owner, who intended to retrieve them should they recover their value.

The discovery is one of the largest ever made in England. Dorset is a prolific source of treasure trove. At a farm just outside Dorchester a year ago grazing cattle unearthed a hoard of 100 gold coins.

PORTUGUESE FIND

More than 15,000 coins comprised the greatest Roman hoard found in modern times. Two years ago workmen near Vinhais, Portugal, unearthed an urn full of silver and copper, minted in the reign of Constantine the Great.

Major G. H. Symes, coroner for South Dorset, is to decide whether an inquest on the South Street finds is necessary.

English Family In Stranded Yacht

TAKEN INTO GERMAN PORT

The British yacht Hepatica, owned by Dr. C. G. Jobbins, of Norwich, was recently taken into Norddeutscher Harbour, of the coast of Prussia, after being stranded for several hours on a sandbank.

Dr. Jobbins was on board with his wife and two small children, aged five and three, accompanied by a nursemaid. The Hepatica is a 22-ton converted fishing smack, and carries a crew of four. Reuter states that her signals were seen and a salvage vessel put out from Bremen and refueled her after two hours' hard work.

Dr. Jobbins is resident assistant medical officer at St. Luke's Hospital, Chelsea. He and his family sailed from Lowestoft and were going to Copenhagen first. They then intended to sail up the Swedish coast.

BISHOPS DENOUNCE ITALIAN WARFARE

WHITE RACE IS SHAMED

ETHIOPIAN'S WARNING

Four bitter attacks on Italy and Mussolini were made in England recently, three of them by bishops.

Dr. Furse, Bishop of St. Albans, speaking at a diocesan conference at Hitchin, referred to "an original member of the League of Nations, waging war on a fellow State member with all the callous ruthlessness which modern science had placed at its disposal in direct violation of the sanctity of its word and of its own definite and solemn repudiation of such barbarous methods of warfare as poison gas."

"I dare to say that Mussolini and those associated with him in the Government of Italy," he declared, "have made the name of the so-called civilised white man stink in the nostrils of the native peoples not only in Abyssinia but in every part of Africa."

"In vain," he added, "have we looked for any outspoken denunciation of such criminal conduct from the head of the largest Christian Community in the world whose seat of Government is at Rome."

Dr. Barnes, Bishop of Birmingham, addressing a Diocesan Conference at Birmingham, said: "I read yesterday that 'Le Reims' were sung in nearly all the principal churches in Italy in thanks for the triumphs of Italian arms: 'We praise Thee, O God'—for incendiary bombs and poison gas which have overwhelmed a wretchedly armed but nominally Christian people fighting for its freedom."

"Were I an Italian ecclesiastic," he said, "I should have cause for fear. As George Herbert wrote: 'God's mill grinds slow but sure.'"

WHITE MAN ASHAMED

Dr. David, Bishop of Liverpool, at the annual meeting of the Church Missionary Society at Liverpool, said a letter came the other day from a chaplain in Addis Ababa. In it he wrote in the bitterness of his heart, "More and more every day I become ashamed that I am a white man."

"If ever there was cause for righteous indignation you have it now," continued the Bishop. "God will judge Italy, but we need not stand idle and passive. We have also our part to play in recording for all time what we think of this monstrous outrage."

"RAVING TIGER"

Dr. Martin, the Ethiopian Minister, speaking at a meeting of the Nile Society in London, said, "If you are not brave and sensible enough to get rid of the raving tiger among you, you will surely find your friends and children torn to pieces by the same raving tiger one day."

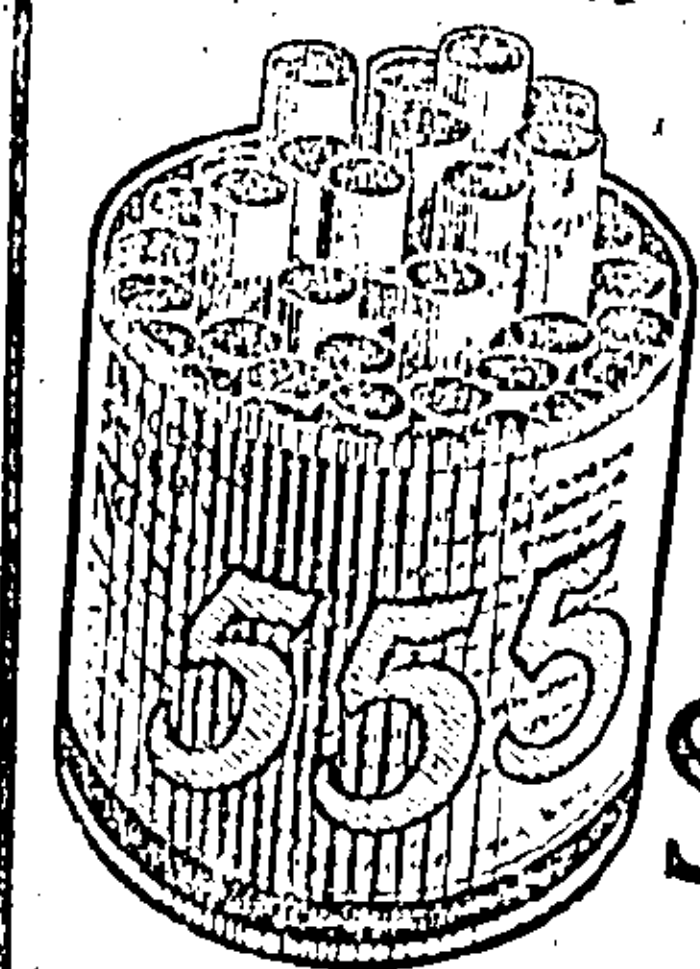

"I think I can assure you that a crime once condoned would certainly lead to another," he said.

"Cowards and selfish people are very fond of putting forward the axiom 'mind your own business' as a convenient way of explaining their failure to do their duty as loyal and helpful members of a family, society, or nation."

"Selfishness and aloofness may be convenient for a period," he added, "but there is no doubt that in course of time there is a sad and certain retribution on account of it."

In every country of the world, people of discerning taste acknowledge the pre-eminence of

MEDITERRANEAN SAFEGUARDS

There is considerable significance in the report that Britain is considering the transfer of her naval base in the Mediterranean from Malta to Cyprus, it being held in some quarters that Malta is now out-of-date and no longer safeguards the Mediterranean. Cyprus, on the other hand, is considered to be better
situated to protect the Suez Canal entrance, and, moreover,
possesses facilities for all types of aircraft. Without doubt, one of the reasons which caused the failure of the League in Ethiopia was Britain's tardy recognition that her control of the Mediterranean had been drastically weakened by the development of the aeroplane and new naval weapons which rendered naval bases, especially Malta, of little use. A well-known American journal, commenting on the failure to make sanctions against Italy really effective, asks whether it was more fear of injury
by Italy or fear of upsetting a delicate balance of power in Europe either by throwing Mussolini into Hitler's arms or by breaking Italy's power to stand against Germany in Austria.
The latter fear was manifestly dominant in France if not in England. It lay behind the Hoare-Laval plan. And from the beginning it lay behind the reluctance to apply measures which would have really stopped Italy. It probably accounts for the failure to close the Suez Canal which would have cut Mussolini's power in two. It was plainly the reason for applying only those sanctions
which would still permit Italy to fight. Whether the sanctions which were applied were weakening Italy so that she could not have carried on a second year's campaign is a question Haile Selassie's flight makes academic.
Apparently, says the authority quoted, the League powers were counting too much on Abyssinian weather and geography. And Geneva was defeated far more definitely when it refused to

Will France Follow Spain On Bloody Path Of Terror?

POLITICAL assassination, arson
and pillage have been the firstfruits of the triumph in Spain of the Popular Front or Communist Bloc.

Everybody here in Paris to-day is asking whether France is doomed
to travel by the same bloodstained path and whether here, too, the summer skies are to be illumined by the flames from burning buildings.

In France, the birthplace of revolutions, the elections which have just taken place have given an absolute majority, not only of seats but of votes throughout the country, to the French Popular Front, which, like its namesake in Spain, is composed of Communists, Socialists and Radicals.

There are those who are saying, "The disorders may be occurring in Spain, but such excesses are impossible in France."

They have overlooked the atrocious massacres of September 1793 when the Paris mob murdered innocent prisoners and when the streets of Paris ran red with blood. They have forgotten that one year later within the space of five weeks 1,367 men and women,
most of them innocent of any political crime—men and women of the highest character and unblemished life—were guillotined on the Place de la Concorde.

apply the oil sanction than when Addis Ababa collapsed. When other sanctions would have been any more successful had the United States, Germany and Japan been in the League is very doubtful. The dependence of France on Italy—clearly revealed in the anomalous appeal to Rome to join in pressure against Germany over the Rhineland—was such that they apparently could not tolerate successful sanctions against Italy. The sanctions they did apply only irritated the Italian people and helped to make Mussolini's African adventure a national crusade against the League. What then does this experience mean? Manifestly sanctions failed to stop Mussolini. Or rather the nations failed to apply effective sanctions, dared not drive economic pressure to the point of military sanctions. Clearly peace could not in this case be enforced without the use of force. Can it under different circumstances?
Probably not against any great power. Certainly statesmen, charged with responsibility for immediate action, are not likely to put much faith in sanctions
until the nations have recognized more clearly that the risks of anarchy are greater than the risks of collective security. The next step for statesmen, who must deal with things as they appear to be, not as they would like them to be, will be some less pretentious method than Article 16—continued development of the Geneva forum as a means of showing up the essence of international disputes and adjusting them; working through active application of Article 19 for the removal of injustices that cause war; or possibly general attempts to prevent rather than penalize war by putting embar-goes on all belligerents. For others the next step might well be an undiscouraged effort to understand the true nature of peace and the peaceful thinking
which is the surest peacemaking.

CIVIL STRIFE

FRANCE has even in more recent times of political stress been the scene of crimes worse than those which have been committed in Spain. In the Commune of 1871 churches were burned down and hostages were taken out and shot.

Nobody, therefore, can say that in a fresh fever of political agitation, when party opposes party,
similar crimes may not be repeated.

But it is from the Communists,
who are now for the first time in history 83-strong in the French Chamber, that such violence can be feared.

The Socialists and the Radicals,
with a moderate programme,
strictly within the law, may perhaps be allowed to hold the stage at first. And yet the Communists are already chafing at such restraint, and one of their more violent leaders, not a worker but a writer, M. Vaillant-Couturier, is clamouring for immediate action and for the Popular Front to take office at once, whether such action would desert to the Communist ranks.

By Harold G.
Cardozo,

And so the history of a possible French crisis can be imagined in advance. The Socialists and Radicals will try to carry out the Popular Front policy, and will bring about financial crisis after financial crisis, while trade and industry will suffer, and soon the millions will be affected by hunger and want.

LACK of bread has always been a cry in Paris which has raised barricades in the streets,
and the Communists, with their experts from Moscow, would not be slow to take advantage of such a situation. Socialists and Radicals would be swamped. Many of them, from fear or from conviction would desert to the Communist ranks.

SIDE GLANCES By George Clark

"Somehow, I got a laugh out of the doc's suggestion. He said a trip out to the Grand Canyon would be the best thing for me."

History would repeat itself, and the little band of Communists, the "Montagnards" of the Reign of Terror, would become supreme in a Rump Parliament. Then there would come the reign of the guillotine, and of the torturers, men of the bloodthirsty stamp of Couthon
and Fouquier-Therville.

The day might come when Notre Dame would be sacked and its priceless treasures disappear.
Churches like La Trinite and St.
Vincent de Paul might crash in a turmoil of smoke and flames. The great houses on the Avenue Foch
might be the scene of murder, arson and pillage, and once more unburied dead might lie in the streets of Paris while Communist mobs from the Red suburbs armed with machine-guns and explosives wreaked their will.

There is another side to the picture. The French are more educated than they were in the days of past revolutions. There is a link between the ex-Service men,
few of whom are revolutionaries
and the majority of whom are united in the intention to fight if Bolshevism should ever show its head in France.

There is, moreover, the fear that such civil strife might be fatal to the political independence of the country. It is known that a powerful and united nation lies on the other side of the Rhine—a nation which is pledged to suppress Communism, and which would not sit idle if the flames of civil war were to spread along its very borders.

Such organisations as Colonel de la Rocque's Croix de Feu, which now numbers nearly 2,000,000 disciplined and enthusiastic adherents, would not accept red revolution and the suppression of constitutional legality without joining issue with its bitterest opponents, the Communists. There is the French Army, whose corps of officers, though not taking an active part in politics, would not countenance the violent overthrow of the present Republican regime.

PLAYING WITH FIRE

FINALLY, there is that extraordinary elasticity and power of recovery of the French nation.
There are many, indeed, who say that although nobody knows his

Nobody can be sure of what the dangerously and then to expect some fresh and miraculous return to stability is simply playing with fire.

RULES FOR H. K. BEACHES

NO MULES OR GOATS CAN BATHE

The constantly increasing demand for bathing facilities in the Colony has made it necessary for the Government to decide on control measures at the various beaches.

Accordingly, under the terms of the Pleasure Grounds and Bathing Places Regulation Ordinance, shortly to be introduced in the Legislative Council, detailed rules are being laid down. These cover numerous points, including the conditions under which tents and awnings may be erected, and surf-boards used.

The proposed regulations, in full, are as follows:

At every bathing place—Vehicles (except perambulators) are prohibited upon the beach; and Dogs (except on a lead), cattle, horses, mules, goats, and similar animals are prohibited upon the beach and in the water over or near the beach, and no person shall do or cause to be done any act in contravention of any prohibition contained in either paragraph of this regulation.

TENTS AND AWNINGS

No person shall maintain for hire any tent, awning, screen or similar structure on the beach at any bathing place at which bathing sheds are maintained on areas held under permits issued by the Director of Public Works or the appropriate District Officer.

No person shall maintain for hire any tent, awning or similar structure on the beach at any other place without the written permission of the Director of Public Works or the appropriate District Officer. The fee payable for any such written permission, which shall be valid for one year and which shall be subject to any condition which the Director of Public Works or the appropriate District Officer may deem fit to impose, shall be $10.

Tents, awnings or similar structures, in private ownership and not intended to be let for hire, may be erected and maintained without permit for periods not exceeding twelve hours in any one day on the beach at any bathing place at which no bathing sheds are maintained on areas held under permits issued by the Director of Public Works or the appropriate District Officer.

HAWKING AND RUBBISH

No person shall hawk any goods, wares, merchandise, or any food, at any bathing place without the permission of the appropriate District Officer.

St. Joseph With a Waistcoat

Picture That May Cause A Storm

A PAINTING which may arouse controversy in religious circles hangs on a wall of St. Augustine's Church, Chorlton-on-Medlock, Manchester, to which it has been presented by Mr. Louis Duffy, a young Manchester artist.

It shows saints in modern dress at the burial of Christ. Joseph is in shirt sleeves and wears a waistcoat. A woman kneeling by the figure of Christ has a shawl over her head. Mary and Nicodemus, however, are in flowing robes.

"I had no intention of merely painting a 'different' picture," Mr. Duffy told the Sunday Dispatch. "In every serious religious picture that has ever been painted the artist has used the dress of his own time for his characters."

Effective Message

"I firmly believe that I, or any other artist, can convey a message far more effectively through the colour and design of modern dress than by trying to recapture the traditional costume."

"Some people will fall to find any message in my painting when they see the dress of their own time, but on the other hand a great many have told me that they agree with me."

PEOPLE TRICKED AT ELECTION

Cabinet Pretended They Agreed With Council Of Action Policy

"WE are making a great human appeal to the electorate of this country on issues on the solution of which will depend the progress and happiness of the human race."

That was Mr. Lloyd George's opening declaration at a conference at Central Hall, Westminster, of chairmen and officers of area committees of the Council of Action for Peace and Reconstruction.

"One of these issues," continued Mr. Lloyd George, "is the abolition of human sacrifice as a means of protection against the forces of evil that divide nations."

TWO GREAT ISSUES

"This is the worst and the most cruel relic of a savage world which unhappily survives in the form of war, and upon a more tremendous scale than was ever contemplated in the imagination of our forefathers."

"In the last war ten millions were slaughtered on the altar of this ferocious superstition."

The abolition of that was one of the great issues upon which they were concentrating.

His second thought was the imperative need of the reorganisation of the ample resources of society, in such a way as to ensure a square deal in life for all human beings who conformed to the just rules of a civilised community.

"The distressed areas," he said, "have been with us so long that we are now taking them for granted, but the bleak wastes of this country are not confined to districts which are scheduled as distressed."

"You will find them in hundreds of cities, towns and villages which are not on the list."

"As long as 20 millions of our fellow-citizens are declared by high scientific authorities to be habitually under-nourished, no one can claim that we have approached the attainment of what is due from a Christian State to its citizens."

"We are non-party, men and women of all parties—and a great many of us not knowing exactly what party. (Laughter.)"

"But we have felt that while there are several parties, there are only two alternative policies; one is the policy of human brotherhood and the other the policy of inhuman selfishness and indifference."

WHY THEY FAILED AT GENERAL ELECTION

"These were the issues we stood to raise in the last election. We raised them in definite form in their bearings on current events."

"Why did we not succeed in impressing them on the electorate?"

"Largely because they were obscured, not by conditions, but by the apparent adhesion on the part of all parties to the running candidates, and not mere adhesion, but so far as words were concerned."

"Take the talk of peace, veneration for the Covenant, the zeal for collective action and the need for improving the conditions of the down-trodden masses who lived in the black areas."

"PRETENDED THEY WERE ON OUR SIDE"

"Hundreds of thousands of men and women honestly believed in the sincerity of these professions and voted accordingly."

"We lost our case at the last election because they fraudulently pretended they were on our side."

"We know the result only too well. Disillusionment is now universal in capturing the girl, who must not be given in marriage to another on pain of death. They then succeeded in making their escape in the darkness and have not yet been found by the police."

Mr. Lloyd George emphasises point during his speech

noble qualities will be once more roused among democratic nations. "It is impossible to stir them up now in and for peace and social reconstruction. That is our purpose."

IF COUNCIL IS TO SUCCEED "If our organisation is to succeed at all it will be by helping to give the right answer to this question which I put."

"If the Churches are united in their determination to put these things right without deference to powerful interests, with the influence they wield both outside as well as inside the churches, and also without reference to party prejudices and predilections, all these wrongs and miseries would be swept away in a decade."

In a discussion Mr. P. Hopkins (Western area) foreshadowed the possibility of a great popular front in the cause of peace.

The conference, at which others spoke in the same strain, sat in private later to discuss details of organisation.

Three unemployed men who pleaded guilty before Mr. S. F. Balfour, at the Central Magistracy this morning, to having returned from banishment before the expiration of their terms were sentenced to varying terms of imprisonment. Chiu Yuen, 21, was sentenced to twelve months' hard labour and Ng Sau-lam, aged 22 years, and Li Hung alias Li On 22 years, were each sentenced to nine months' hard labour. They were arrested in the Central district.

Hau Kam-oi, 47 years, married woman, residing at Nos. 167-169 Queen's Road West, second floor, appeared before Mr. W. Schofield, at the Central Magistracy this morning, charged on three counts of keeping three unregistered prostitutes, Li Ki, aged 10 years; Lau Ming, aged nine years, and Cheung Kwai-lan, aged 14 years. Mr. F. I. Zimmern appeared on behalf of defendant and asked for a week's formal remand, which was granted. Defendant was allowed bail in $700.

Cheung Wah, 20, unemployed, and a juvenile appeared before Mr. Balfour at the Central Magistracy this morning charged with attempting to travel on the Yau-mat ferry launch "Man Tak" without paying their fares. The juvenile pleaded that he did not have enough money. Ticket Inspector Black stated that just as the vessel was about to leave they jumped from the wharf to the ferry. This was a common practice, especially with young newspaper hawkers. The accused were remanded until tomorrow for enquiries. The youth is to appear in the Juvenile Court. Cheung Wah was remanded in custody.

(By R. Abbit)

In the last few days I have received two sets of figures, one from the Hongkong Club, and one from the leaders in last season's school cricket, the Central British School. And I am much obliged to my contributors. It is interesting to get them practically together as it is to be hoped that the lack of good recruits disclosed in the Club's figures may be offset by the fact that the school figures show that, locally at all events, we have a few useful youngsters coming along. Whether or not they will be saved to the game and pass on into the ranks of our various Club sides remains to be seen.

The Club have had a most difficult season and I do not propose to enumerate all the players they have lost since the season started. Suffice it to say that very nearly a full eleven could be made up of those who have gone, and one quite capable of holding its own in the League, especially in bowling.

The Club has been so strong that this steady exodus of players has not reduced them to a lowly position in the League. They did not complete their programme I think (I write this without records and figures being to hand) and they certainly played at full strength and lost it in declaring to try and force a win, but even as the figures stand they are fourth and might have been third, had there been time to finish their programme.

The great trouble of the Club at present is lack of new players. If the nine names shown in the batting averages of the first eleven be examined, it will be seen that practically all are old hands. It is particularly surprising. In these difficult times few firms are bringing out youngsters from England. And it must be confessed that, owing to doubt to the encouragement of tennis and even golf (horrible dicta) at our Public Schools, fewer of the younger generation play the game. But there is no doubt that it does make things difficult.

For the first eleven, Owen Hughes did not return to the Colony until the season had been under way for about a couple of months, but he lost no time in finding his firm, and for a few days at the end of the season he would have had much better figures. T. A. Pearce was better, however, but he failed to get going for a long time. The sort of cricket that is or was until last season, thought to be necessary in the exalted circles in which he played, does not work too well on a pitch that may always be trusted to do the unexpected.

E. R. Duckitt as usual has proved a sterling value and from personal observation I can vouch that he has definitely played much fruer cricket than before, scoring at an excellent pace on occasions. His defence was never in doubt.

T. B. Pearce has played more regularly than has been the case for a season or two, and he has done very well indeed as he had an average of just over twenty for sixteen innings, with only one not out to help him. He definitely played his way into the Interport side, and I imagine it is somewhat of a record to have a father and a son in the same Interport side. Tom Hayward's figures are in no way an indication of his form, as he has never let any consideration about checking away his wicket prevent him from playing for the needs of his side and most of the knocks he has played have been of the "get four or get out" type.

C.B.S. CRICKET

Analysis By R. Abbit To-morrow

To have won 18 out of 21 cricket matches in one season is a record worthy of any team. It was boasted by Central British School last season as R. Abbit will point out in his interesting analysis of the C.B.S. cricket achievements of 1935-36 which appears in to-morrow's Telegraph. Figures reveal that the C.B.S. have at least two young cricketers of promise and that the school has one of the best teams in Hongkong at the present time.

MATCH-WINNING BAT

The scores are worked out over all matches, of course, and no separate League figures are given. Of those who played less than the ten innings necessary to qualify, R. D. Gillespie is definitely one of the best match-winning batsmen in the Colony and his straight hitting is a joy to watch, unless you happen to be the bowler. Growder, a visitor from Australia who stayed long enough and played well enough to make us wish more cricketers of his type would come up and see us some time, not plenty of runs (and even more wickets) and it seemed to me that his style bore a family resemblance to that of Ivor Mennis who played one or two very nice knocks.

Dunkley, it is true, was not out seven times out of thirteen knocks but I stick to my opinion that if he

JUGOSLAVIA'S RECOVERY

Paris, June 8. French tennis to-day received its biggest set-back since Perry and Austin took the Davis Cup away from Paris in 1933. After leading Jugoslavia by two matches to one, France lost the remaining two singles and was eliminated from the current Davis Cup competition.

There was a palpitating finish. Pallada defeated Destrebecq in four sets to make the teams two-all and in the concluding match Puce, after losing the first and third sets, beat Housens by three sets to two.

It was a terrific struggle of 45 games, but the Frenchman cracked in the fifth set which he lost at 6-1.

The complete scores as sent by Reuter were:

Pallada (Jugoslavia) beat Housens 6-2, 2-6, 6-1, 6-2.
Destrebecq (France) beat Puce 3-6, 6-2, 7-5, 6-6, 9-7.

Borotra and Bernard (France) beat Kukulevic and Mibe 8-6, 7-5, 1-6, 3-6, 6-2.

Pallada beat Destrebecq 6-1, 1-6, 8-6, 6-1.

Puce beat Housens 3-6, 6-1, 1-6, 7-5, 6-1.

Jugoslavia now meets Austria in the semi-final of the European Zone, the winners contesting either Germany or Ireland.

BADMINTON AT THE K.C.C.

STILL HOLDING THEIR OWN

Siamese Tennis Players Share Honours

The Siamese tennis players now on a visit to Hongkong have still to be beaten by local talent. Yesterday they held their own against the Indian Recreation Club. Sanoh and Prachub, their champion pair beating H. D. Rumlajn and A. H. Madar, while Muang and Ramlong lost to S. A. Rumlajn and M. O. Hosen.

Subsequently Muang demonstrated that he is a fine singles player by taking a set from S. A. Rumlajn and leading him 3-1 in the second stanza.

Yesterday's conditions were anything but ideal. Rain fell intermittently during the first two sets and the light was very difficult.

Sanoh and Prachub did very well to beat H. D. Rumlajn and Madar 6-3, 4-6, 6-3, but S. A. Rumlajn and Hosen had rather a walk-over against Muang and Ramlong, winning 6-2, 6-1.

Muang played fast and clever tennis to beat S. A. Rumlajn 9-7 and lead 3-1 in a singles contest. Both players had a hard time securing a fourth set on the slippery turf and falls were frequent. Muang's decisive volleying and almost unflinching overhead gave him just the necessary edge over Rumlajn who was pegged back more than usual to the baseline.

Arrangements for the public exhibitions on Thursday and Friday have been completed. On Thursday S. A. Rumlajn will play in a singles while the Tsui brothers will figure in a doubles. On Friday the Rumlajns' cousins will play for the Colony side as doubles and Tsui Wai-pui at singles.

Admission to the H.K.C.C. on both days will be fifty cents.

This afternoon the Siamese will endeavour to maintain their unbeaten record when they are entertained by Club de Reccelo.

Golfing Visit To England

U.S. TEAM TO GO ON TOUR

New York, June 1. A special delegation of golfers, from the New York Athletic Club, will visit England this summer after the Olympic Games, and will, it is expected, play one-day matches at Sandwich, Sunningdale, Stoke Poges, Wentworth and Moor Park. It is announced in the current issue of The Winged Foot, monthly publication of the New York Athletic Club.

The Athletic Club is sending a party of sports enthusiasts to Berlin to see the Olympic Games, and reservations so far cause those handling the tour to believe that the club's party will be the largest of any party going to Berlin from this country, on tours arranged by various organizations.

The club's Golf Committee, in charge of the tour, is negotiating with British officials regarding the golfing visit to England. The entire party will sail from New York in the Ile de France on July 23.

LAWN BOWLS FIVE MORE MATCHES DECIDED

Re-Arranged Ties

Four of the six outstanding first round matches in the lawn bowls championship of the Colony were decided yesterday, the other two being abandoned owing to rain.

Two Club de Reccelo pairs were eliminated, but J. L. Silva and H. A. Alves had an easy passage into the next stage.

The results follow:

PAIRS CHAMPIONSHIP

A. E. Cones and J. Cavanagh beat J. M. Alves and J. J. Basto 31-11.

T. Coleman and G. N. Mitchell beat D.C.S. Alves and F.V.V. Ribeiro 23-21.

J. L. Silva and H. A. Alves beat F. M. el Arculli and A. Bakar 30-11.

W. L. Walker and H. H. Rose beat F. Cheeseman and J. G. Gill 22-17.

UNCOMPLETED MATCHES

C. Roza Perelara and C. G. Silva were leading A. Stevo and Dr. J.A.R. Selby 12-2 on the seventh when the match had to be abandoned.

J. MacDonald and A. M. Holland were leading F. A. Machado and H. E. Rozario 10-7 on the tenth when rain caused postponement.

SINGLES CHAMPIONSHIP

In the first round of the singles championship F. X. da Silva beat B. E. Maughan 22-9 on the 14th end, while the match between R. P. Phillips and M. J. Henderson had to be abandoned with Phillips leading 10-7 on the tenth end.

REVISED FIXTURE

TWO SINGLES MATCHES PUT OFF UNTIL TO-MORROW

Further re-arrangements have become necessary in the fixtures in the local lawn bowls championships.

The Singles match fixed for yesterday between H. F. Rozario and L. P. Xavier for the Kowloon Cricket Club was postponed as Rozario played a Pairs match. This fixture will be played to-morrow afternoon.

As J. Hosen will be played in a Rinks Championship match to-day his Singles game against J. S. Dimer on the Football Club's green has been postponed until to-morrow.

Green rangers are asked to note the alterations.

Arrangements are being made for a Rinks match to be played on Sunday morning, on the Civil Service C.C. green, J. J. Basto, C. M. Silva, C. H. Basto and F. X. Soares will meet R. P. Shaw, G. S. Graver, E. S. Carier and C. B. Robertson.

ATTRACTIVE TENNIS MATCH SPOILT BY RAIN & THUNDER

(By "Vellita")

Chinese Recreation Club and U.S.R.C. mixed doubles tennis teams lost their race yesterday against the rain and a threatening thunderstorm, the heavy clouds yielding their watery burdens after two sets had been completed, the match being abandoned at this stage.

Chinese Recreation Club were hosts, and they had good reason, strongly on the subject of adverse weather conditions. They found themselves against a team considerably weakened by the absence of two prominent lady players and with every prospect of pulling off a win. Quite naturally the U.S.R.C. reactions were of an opposite nature. Without Mrs. Kayll, who is suffering from a strained back, and Mrs. Dowling, who has been in hospital for a week with a poisoned foot, things looked rather black for them. They were opposed to a team to whom they could afford to give no concessions, and there is little doubt, despite the useful start made by the visitors, that had the match been completed the Chinese would have won.

THUNDER AND LIGHTNING While the tennis lasted, it was interesting. The light was discovered and quite often volleys and drives were made to the accompaniment of thunderclaps and flashes of lightning. In view of these unwelcome influences, therefore, the 26 games which were played boasted a very creditable standard of tennis.

Chinese R.C. were at full strength, which is to say Tsui Wai-pui, who was paired with Mrs. Chiu Chun-chiu, W. C. Hung had Mrs. Litton as his partner and Miss Rumlajn teamed up with Tsui Yung-pui.

Mrs. Ashton and Mrs. Mary Holmes deputised for Mrs. Kayll and Mrs. Dowling, the former pairing with Mr. Whittington and Mrs. Holmes with Sullivan. Mrs. Nora Wilson played with Goldman.

Mrs. Ashton and Major Whittington scored an astonishing success against Tsui Yung-pui and Miss Rumlajn. Mrs. Ashton was very sound from the baseline, while Major Whittington struck with his net interceptions. They succeeded in keeping the ball well away from Tsui, and while Tsui Rumlajn played well, she could not sustain her ground strokes in the face of such a concentrated attack.

On another court Hung and Mrs. Litton won just as easily against Sullivan and Mrs. Holmes. The winners possessed better-controlled strokes, Hung being particularly prominent at the net.

ELEVEN EXCITING GAMES

On the No. 1 court there was an exciting encounter between Goldman and Mrs. Wilson and Tsui Wai-pui and Mrs. Chiu. The U.S.R.C. couple waited round the opposition for six games, and Mrs. Wilson drove a powerful shot with his volleys and overhead "kills". During this period Mrs. Chiu was having trouble in timing the ball and tended to lift her shots, while Tsui could not get the ball clear of the net.

But after the visitors had run into a 5-2 lead the Chinese couple took command of the exchanges. A general improvement was noticed with Tsui scoring nicely with sharp volleys and Mrs. Chiu standing up from the baseline. The result was that they held service and then broke through Mrs. Wilson's delivery.

Mrs. Chiu's service followed and they managed to hold that to bring the scores up to five-all. Goldman then won his service, but before Tsui could start his rain fall and the match was abandoned.

There was a lot of bright tennis during these eleven games, and no better shot was seen during the brief time of play than Mrs. Chiu's very hot return of a fierce drive by Mrs. Wilson which forced a week response and resulted in an ace volley for Tsui. This point gave the home team the vital break-through in the ninth game.

The match will be entirely replayed at a later date.

K.C.C. MATCH OFF

Although a start was made in the mixed doubles match between K.C.C. (2) and Club de Reccelo on the former's courts yesterday, the match had to be abandoned.

At the time G. Clarke and Mrs. McCaw were leading A. V. Remedios and Miss Botelho 4-1; E. P. Guest and Mrs. Revere leading C. A. Barretto and Miss A. Remedios 4-2; C. E. Watson and Mrs. Garfield were losing 1-2 to A. V. Gosano and Miss O. Ribeiro.

Amel Hoffman, the manager, said his protegee has taken out a card in the Musician's Union, and has no doubt that he will draw the crowds with his crooning as he used to draw them with his flashing fists.

As a further attraction, the former "Play-boy" champion has developed a capacity for tap dancing which he hopes will augment his chances for success before the footlights. His young brother, Buddy Baer, also will croon.

RUGBY RULES SURPRISE

A Shock and an Explanation

(By J. P. Jordan)

The Rugby Union recently succeeded in startling their affiliated clubs. In the agenda of the annual general meeting, to be held on June 26, it was stated that the International Board had instructed their laws sub-committee to consider the change in value of a try by reducing it from three points to two.

Everyone knew of the proposal that a dropped goal should count three points instead of four, and a goal from a mark two instead of three, but that a try should be reduced was too revolutionary.

Certain clubs promptly instructed their representatives to vote against this alteration and a lively meeting was promised.

But it was only a misprint after all, a postcard to this effect being sent out some days later! A try will continue to count three points, but the other proposed changes will be put to the vote.

The scrumming law is to be reviewed with the object of improvement, and the definition of a tackle is to be improved to ensure uniform decisions by referees. This means that a player brought to the ground may not pass the ball if it has touched the ground.

The scope of the wing forward is to be further restricted, and pushing a player from behind while attempting to pick up the ball is to be awarded between the posts and not in a line where the unfair play or interference occurred.

The opinion of the Rugby Union regarding these proposed changes will be placed before the Board in September, and no actual changes in the laws of the game will be made until the Board's meeting in March 1937.

INQUIRY INTO DEATH OF CAESAR MANELLI

Captain Of 1924 Olympic Rugby Team Drowned At Boating Party

Antioch, California.

A complete investigation into the circumstances connected with the drowning here of Caesar Manelli, 33, captain of the 1924 Olympic Games Rugby Football championship team, has been ordered by the sheriff of Contra Costa County.

The sheriff said that he was not satisfied with the reports of Manelli's death in the San Joaquin river. He admitted that it looked like an accident, but said that he wanted to make sure.

Manelli died while on a week-end boating party. He sank while swimming, apparently being seized with a cramp, the sheriff said that members of the party told him.

Desire
TACTICAL

(By Ronald T. Symond)

The Australian Board of Control have decided to recommend to the M.C.C. that the eight-ball over be employed in Tests as well as other matches in Australia.

During the last English tour in Australia the six-ball over was used in Test matches. The Board think that the time is now ripe to extend the normal conditions in Australia to all international matches in that country.

As the Australians have so readily agreed to adopt the altered I.B.W. rule, it would be churlish for us to boggle at a small point. But the change is not quite so trivial as it seems at first glance.

In conversation at Lord's, Mr. P. F. Warner, who is perhaps without a rival in experience of international captaincy, admitted to me that he would prefer to see no further extension of the number of balls per over. He pointed out that tactical considerations are involved.

If runs are precious, for example, it is one thing for a captain to hazard an experimental bowler for an over of six balls and another to face the risk of seeing a batsman take toll of eight.

Mr. Warner recalled a match in Australia when B. J. T. Bosanquet was very heavily punished. As captain, Mr. Warner hesitated to give him another over. He did so, and with success, for Bosanquet then took several wickets cheaply. On that occasion there were runs to spare, but that is not always the case. The risk of an eight-ball over, being greater than that of six balls, might be enough to turn the scale of a captain's judgment in making the decision.

NICHOLS'S VIEW

In the heat of Australia, an extra strain would be put upon fast bowlers. I asked M. S. Nichols, the Essex fast bowler, how he would like to bowl over of eight balls. "I would prefer six in a Test match," was his reply. He emphasised the tense strain of bowling in such games, when a fast bowler puts every bit of his strength and concentration into each delivery. Two extra balls would make a difference.

Obviously, therefore, a change of the kind proposed would require readjustments. Fast bowlers would have to redistribute their expenditure of maximum energy to fit the change over. A captain would be faced with slightly different tactical problems. But the same argument applies conversely to the Australians regarding the new I.B.W. rule, so that the difficulties of readjustment are somewhat balanced.

The difficulties involved are by no means negligible, but scarcely so serious as to warrant a refusal if the Australian Board are anxious to put all games in their country on the same footing.

Here is the "history of the over" in England and Australia: England—1744, 4 balls; 1889, 5 balls; 1900 to date, 6 balls; Australia—1887, 6 balls; 1918, 8 balls. New Zealand adopted the 8-ball over in 1924, but reverted to the 6-ball over in 1927.

FANLING GOLF

In the Captain's Cup Competition, played over the old course at Fanling during the week-end, H. H. Mundy qualified with a score of 73—83-10. There were eighteen entries.

THE BOWLING

It was in bowling that the Club were worst hit by departures, and but for Crowder, Alce Pearce would have had to keep this department of the game going for them with very little support for a great deal of the season. If he has at times been disappointing as a bat, there is no doubt that he has bowled better than he has ever done out here. Dick Ricketts was only with us for a comparatively short portion of the season but he only failed by one wicket to qualify, and would have been second. Duckitt also got nineteen wickets and I am not sure that more use might not have been made of him. Garthwaite picked up a similar number of wickets at a much lower cost but of course he did not play in any of the League games, and, speaking without the book, I fancy he did not have quite the batting against him that most of the others did.

THE FIELDING

On the whole the fielding was good and Metcalfe is one of the finest catchers of the ball I have ever seen out here, while his return to the wicket is excellent. Dunkley was excellent behind the stumps while Owen Hughes continued to bring off excellent catches in the slips, while Ricketts, at first slip, was amazingly safe.

THE SECOND ELEVEN

The difficulties of the first eleven rested on the second who had great difficulty in getting out a regular side. Potter and Forbes were the mainstay of the batting while J. Stein on the few occasions on which he played showed that if in regular practice he was probably good enough for the first. But on the whole their season was a very in and out affair, and on the whole the bowling was not strong and the catching at times very indifferent.

Shanghai
Golf Record
BrokenBRILLIANT ROUND
BY RICKETTS

A. Ricketts of Shanghai who has been playing brilliant golf recently, has broken two records, one officially and the other unofficially. Playing on the Hungjao Course on Whit Monday in the medal competition he went round in 71 thereby beating the record of 72 made by N. A. Brown in the China Amateur Championship last October.

On the previous Saturday Ricketts, who was playing splendidly, recorded 66, the lowest score ever made over the Hungjao Course under any conditions. Unfortunately this score was done in a friendly game and, although every ball was holed, it cannot stand as an official record, which can only be made in stroke competition. These two excellent rounds by Ricketts surely go to show that the saying "Try, Try Again" is more than a proverb. It is an axiom. Ricketts, who is as keen a golfer as anyone could meet, has on many occasions reached the 10th tee of the Hungjao Course with the record within his grasp. But disaster has overcome him each time on the last three holes and his card has been spilt.

The two scores—first the 71 and secondly the 66—were made up as follows:

4, 4, 2, 5, 4, 4, 3, 5, 3=34
3, 4, 5, 5, 3, 4, 4, 5, 4=37
His unofficial record score card reads:—
4, 4, 4, 5, 3, 3, 3, 4, 4=34
3, 5, 3, 3, 4, 4, 3, 4, 3=32

DEAD PUTTING

As is to be expected when 70 is broken, deadly putting was a feature of his game. As the Hungjao greens are beginning to improve, a good putter like Ricketts is now able to pick up a shot or two on the greens. Now-a-days two putts a green, once thought a good average even amongst professionals, is not nearly good enough. In the final of the English Close Championship, J. D. A. Langley, the runner-up averaged less than two putts per green in thirty-two holes. He was beaten 5 and 4 by H. Bentley. The Champion putted so wonderfully that instead of sixty-four putts—the allowance for a scratch golfer—he required only fifty-one putts for the thirty-two holes.

Although the Hungjao Course is extremely short according to present day ideas—it is only 5,705 yards against Hoylake's 7,125 yards where this year's "Open" will be played—it calls for accurate golf and loose shots are usually punished. The Daily Mail Competition held recently at Bramshot, England, was of particular interest in proving that a short difficult course can defeat even the best of professionals. Yet of the 400 rounds played only about one per cent. of the professionals was under seventy.

One professional lost three balls in the first nine holes and A. J. Lacey of Berkshire, who has been greatly to the fore recently, took 50 for nine holes. Alfred Padgham, the winner, took a 10 in one of the qualifying rounds and Alfred Perry, the Open Champion, has a couple of eights and a couple of sevens in one of his rounds.

INVITED TO

Augusta, Georgia.

Mr. Bobby Jones, former world's champion golfer, has been invited by Mr. Hiroshi Saito, the Japanese Ambassador to Washington, to visit Japan as an ambassador of good will.

The invitation was extended indirectly through Mr. William H. Wallace, Jr., of Augusta, who entertained Mr. Saito here during the recent Augusta National Invitation tournament.

Mr. Wallace said that he had posted the invitation to Mr. Jones. In the letter Mr. Saito said: "Convey to Mr. Robert T. Jones our wish, and the wish of all Japanese golfers, to have the chance of extending to him a royal welcome in Japan. His visit will not only enhance the standard of Japanese golf, but will surely contribute to the international friendship between our two peoples."

Heat Enervation
Calls for Tonic Help.

In these days of high pressure many people try to do too much. It is a great mistake, especially at this time of the year when the thermometer runs high, to imagine that you can tax your vitality to the utmost day after day—often at the expense of adequate rest and sleep—without paying the penalty.

True, it is not always possible to avoid overwork, worries, the strain of too many social obligations, but at least you can take steps to fortify your system and to replenish your vital forces as they are used up, thereby averting anaemia, nervous exhaustion, neurasthenia, and the many forms of suffering these conditions entail.

To do this, what you need is a course of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, the blood and nerve tonic which rapidly creates new supplies of red blood, rich in iron and other elements on which the nerves and tissues of the whole body thrive. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have an unequalled reputation as a restorative of "run-down," anaemic, nervous sufferers of both sexes, so if you need tonic help begin a course to-day; you will not be disappointed. Chemists everywhere sell.

THE PRISONER OF SHARK ISLAND
A novelization of
with WARNER BAXTER,
GLORIA STUART and a
cast of 1000 players

In the prison yard a scaffold
had been erected for those poor
wretches who had been tried and
found guilty of conspiracy in the
assassination of President Lincoln.
Dr. Samuel Mudd, who met the fate of the murderer, John Wilkes Booth, had been found
guilty of conspiracy, although he
did not know the man was a
murderer. His wife, Peggy, and daughter, Martha, were in despair. Will he be hanged?

CHAPTER SIX

A casual traveller riding down the
pretty, tree shaded street, on that
lovely Summer day would have thought that the circus had come
to town.

In reality the occasion for this
morbid picnic was the hanging of
the unfortunates who had been
found guilty of conspiracy in the
assassination of President Lincoln.
Crude stages had been hastily erected in front of the prison gate.
Fish was being fried; hot corn
was being peddled.

It was close to five hour for the execution. At the foot of the scaffold
the drummers were standing,
and on the grassy area in front of
death, the executioners tensely
waited.

Suddenly Peggy Mudd, with Ewing and Martha, appeared in the courtyard. She stood rooted in horror as she realized she had walked
into the execution scene.

"It can't be now," she cried.
"You got the best place in the
yard, lady," and soldier told her.
"Yonder's where they'll come out."

turned and buried her face in Ewing's shoulder.

"Steady," he said. "There's no
other way to know."

the great double doors at the end
of the yard slowly opened.

At a slow step a squad of four
soldiers appeared, followed by the
one woman conspirator, Mrs. Sur-
rat, bonneted and veiled, walking heavily between two clergymen. Another squad of four soldiers and the drummers rolled again.

Standing close Ewing, her handkerchief in her mouth, Peggy Mudd
watched the doors open for a second
time. This time a man walked between the two groups of soldiers.

A third roll of drums
The great door swung
shut.

The procession was ended.
Mrs. Mudd turned, white and
dazed, to Ewing. "Sam didn't come
out," she whispered. "Oh, do you
suppose does that mean he's
going to live?"

The suspense had been too much
for her. Her beautiful darkness-closed eyes upon her. Ewing caught her as she swayed and held her tightly.

No one looked at them.
An officer's voice broke the awful
silence. "Present arms!"

There was a rattle of straps and metal. The drop of the four traps. A great gasp went up from those assembled, a muffled scream or two,
and then a shout which rose to a
roar outside the prison gate.

CINEMA NOTES

Kay Francis, supported by a talented cast, comes to the Queen's Theatre
shortly in the First National production "I Found Stella Parish." The film is based on a powerful drama by
John Monk Saunders. Miss Francis
has the intensely dramatic role of a woman who topples from the heights
of success to the depths of despair.
Fighting to hide a terrible page in
her life in order to protect her six
year old daughter from scandal, she
is betrayed by the man she has committed to love, and started her on the downward path. In her profession.
Separated from her child whom she
placed in hiding with a faithful re-
tainer, her love turned to bitter hatred, she is torn by a terrible emotional stress that eats into her heart
and makes her life a horrible nightmare. The tale of the young journalist, the young man who had
published the story of her life after
having won her confidence, to bring
back her success and make up for
the injustice he had done her leads to an astounding and intensely dramatic climax. In Hunter the English stage and film star, has
the role of the journalist, with Paul Lukas
playing the part of the actress' theatrical manager and suitor of the time she had attained the pinnacle of
success. Sybil Jason, the clever child
actress, is seen as Miss Francis'
Daughter. Jessie Ralph has the role
of the child's nurse and Barton
MacLane is the blackmailing husband. Mervyn Loyty directed the picture.

out with their chains draped around
them, lay a prostrate group of half-guard creatures, unheeding and garbed in fettered manacles.

"Land on the starboard bow,"
shouted the look-out.

The prostrate huddle stirred.
Painfully they rose to peer over the bow rail. Only a thin, scarcely visible cloud-like line was visible.

The line continued to stare,
there rose from the sea, while the
vessel drew nearer, a grim, forbid-
ding fortress, starkly white and
gleaming in the tropical sun.

"Well, boys, there she is—Shark Island!"

Samuel Alexander Mudd, lately
doctor of medicine in the County of Charles, in Maryland, surveyed
from pain wracked eyes the forbid-
ding spectacle before them. Here,
said the court that had tried him,
was he to spend the rest of his life.

And his physician's knowledge told
him that, behind those fever-struck
walls, that might be a short sentence.

Port Jefferson, Dry Tortugas.
Sixty-five miles out in the Gulf of Mexico, place of living dead.

The transport drew alongside the
pier, jutting out from the forbid-
ding seawall. Negro troops, detailed
as guards, trooped down to the
dock, to take over the prisoners,
who were herded down the gang-
plank, their chains clanking with each
painful step.

As the condemned men crossed
the bridge, which was the only entrance to the prison, one of their number, an filthy rogue, grinned
toothlessly at the soldiers and jerking
his thumb over his shoulder, mutter-
ed.

"That's him, soldiers!"
The Negroes stared curiously at Dr.
Mudd, who unaware of their interest,
shuffled wearily along in his chains.

But suddenly his face lighted with
happy astonishment.
He had recognized Buck, the negro
who had worked for him.

"Why Buck?" he exclaimed.
"Move on, white man," said Buck,
with no sign of recognition, his expression, like the others, hard and
cruel.

Dr. Mudd stiffened, but after a moment of hesitation he went on.
"Fresh meat, Sarge," said the Corporal, "lead for me!"

"Shoot 'em in,"
Sergeant Rankin looked up.
"Shoot 'em in."

He came around to the front of
his desk, and leaning on it, glanced
through the papers.

Fourth in line, Dr. Mudd gazed stolidly at Rankin. He did not expect sympathy from this man who
had aided in his arrest, but his was
a familiar face and in this horrible
place there was a certain old pleasure
even in recognizing an old enemy.

"Name?" said Rankin to the first
man.
"William Dunger."

The old Wild West. Much of the picture was made in the remote
wilderness of the "mother lode"
country of Central California, the
region in which millions were taken
from the ground in the heyday of
the gold boom, and where Murrieta
led his wild men in raids on the
scattered American settlements. History dies hard in this wild country.

Living there to-day are scores of
grizzled veterans whose family histories are indelibly associated with
the winning of the West. And from these old timers, Baxter obtained information about the gold rush days
that never has been written into history stories of intimate happenings in
the lives of their parents, stories of stark tragedy, of hilarious comedy, of vivid romance that flared in those far gone days. Much of this was incorporated into the picture, "Robin Hood of El Dorado." For in the words of William Wellman, director,
it was "too good to pass up."

Real life happenings were dramatized and
transferred into action by the 200 men
and women from Hollywood, who,
with the assistance of more than a
thousand residents of the gold belt,
re-enacted events that made history
in the days of '49. Appearing with Baxter in the picture, produced by John W. Considine, Jr., is a notable featured cast which includes Ann Loring, Bruce Cabot, Margo, J. Carroll
Nash, Eric Linden, Edgar Kennedy,
Charles Trowbridge and Harvey Stephens.

"Celling Zero"
Packed with thrilling action,
dynamic drama, comedy and romance, "Celling Zero" is opening today at the Queen's Theatre. Based on the stage play by Lieut. Commander Frank Wead, it concerns three war buddies, who are thrown together in commercial aviation. Pat O'Brien as
the superintendent of flyers at a Western airport where Stuart Erwin
is employed, as a pilot, seeks the
services of Cagney a spectacular
aviator to join them. Cagney is a devil with the ladies. He makes a play for the pretty air hostess, played
by a new comer, June Travis, whom

"Huh," locating his paper. "Murder and arson. Life imprisonment." Suddenly he shouted, "Get moving, you lumps!"

"Next."
"Otto Lehrman," said the second prisoner, mock cordially. Rankin
read with relish. He grinned.
"You'll never make it, Otto," he said
with mock sympathy. "You're too old.
Get moving!"

Suddenly he saw Dr. Mudd. Putting the paper down on his desk
he came forward, pushing the next
man from the line, and gazed at the
doctor with astonishment and seeming pleasure.

"Well, if it isn't my old friend, Dr.
Mudd, Dear Dr. Mudd!"
With mock cordiality Rankin extended his hand. After a moment's hesitation, Mudd took it. Rankin
tightened his grip.

"And so, all they gave you was
life, eh?"

With a sudden jerk he pulled the
swung with his left to the jaw, floor-
ing him.

"Couldn't hang you, eh?" he sneer-ed. "Well, by Judds, you're going to wish they had before I'm through
with you!"

Hauling off, he booted the recum-
bent man.

Then, taking the papers from his
desk, he snarled, "Next!"

Rising from the floor, Mudd wiped
his face with his handkerchief, notic-
ing to his annoyance that his hand
was shaking. Although he had made
up his mind that as a prisoner he
must expect to receive humiliating
treatment, and he had resolved to endure it patiently—if it would do
no good to rebel—still he had not
expected to be so cruelly degraded.

Despite his determination to be a
stoic, his nerves were badly jangled.
The tropical sun, streaming down
on them, the little group of forget-
ten men were conducted to the big,
iron gate through which they had
entered the prison yard.

Standing there, their wrists and
ankles bleeding from the weight of
the chains, they listened apathet-
ically to Sergeant Rankin.

"Before you go any further," he
glared at them, his venomous gaze
resting longest on Dr. Mudd, "I want you to listen to me. Because I know
exactly what you're thinking, every mother's son or you. You're figuring on whether you're going to be able to break out of here."

Grinning from one to the other, he declared, "Well, we've got a little way here of putting thoughts like
that out of your heads follow
me!"

As the gate swung open, he bowed
elaborately at Dr. Mudd.

"You first, Doctor!"
On the other side of the gate the
prisoners were lined up along the
bank of what appeared to be a moat.

Pointing down at its dark waters,
the Sergeant continued gloomily, "When ever you stop get to digging on breaking out of here, I just want you
to give a little thought to this moat.
It runs all the way around the island.
It's 75 feet across and 30 feet deep.
And you know what we keep in it?
We keep bats. Nice little bats. We got more of 'em in that moat than you could count. And sometimes we feed 'em, but not often!"

"What are these 'bats'?" To-morrow
Dr. Mudd discovered the real horrors
of "Shark Island". Don't miss any
chapter of this extraordinary story

ENGINEER
PASSESMR. JOHN HAYS
HAMMONDBOUGHT LIFE
FOR £25,000Gloucester, Mass., June 8.
The death has occurred here, after a long illness, of Mr. John Hays Hammond, at the age of 81 years.
—Reuter.John Hays Hammond, one of the foremost mining engineers in the world, the man who once refused the Vice-Presidency and paid $25,000 to the Boers as the price of his life,
reflected, even in his later years,
the same enthusiasm and forceful, restless energy which characterized his many years of prospecting all over the world.As a consulting engineer he was reputed to be one of the highest estimatmen in the world—popularly estimated reaching the staggering wage of $200,000 a year. A friend of Cecil Rhodes, Hammond advised the empire builder to consolidate his holdings in Africa in specified mining properties which later multiplied the Rhodes' fortune many times over.

HARDY AMERICAN STOCK

Hammond came from hardy
American stock. His father, Major Richard Hammond was a West Point graduate who moved out to San Francisco where the boy was born March 31, 1855. His mother, Sarah, was a sister of a colonel of the famous Texas Rangers. As a youth John was educated at Yale and was graduated from the Sheffield science school in 1876. Following this he went to the Rensselaer School of Mines
at Troy, N.Y., where he continued studying mineralogy, engineering and geology.Hammond had that true instinct for mining which permitted him a glimpse of the terrain and the almost immediate knowledge of where minerals lay hidden. This quality manifested itself in an early successful commission as a mining expert in Mexico. Besides being a mining man he was also a civil and mechanical engineer and was consulting engineer for the Central and Southern Pacific railroads.

RHODES' JOB IN AFRICA

In 1893 Cecil Rhodes offered Hammond a job at Hammond's own terms which was promptly accepted. Once in South Africa he practically became head of the gigantic mining industry; in a year he was earning £20,000.Unrest caused by non-representation in the Boer government of the Outlanders, who were considered as British subjects, led eventually to the Boer war. Hammond was one of the Boers who led the capture of Johannesburg and the capture of Hammond as one of the committee who sponsored the uprising. Hammond, with several others, was tried and convicted. He was sentenced to hang, but was released on bail for the lives of the condemned was made with Oom Paul whereby they were to pay £50,000
apiece and get out of the country.
On payment of £25,000, however, they were let off. Hammond's name was also known in China and Japan as Russia for his work in opening mines and developing railroads. As a special ambassador he attended the coronation of George V. of England in 1911.Coupled with his uncanny knowledge of earth was an unvarying good fortune which pursued his every venture and brought him great wealth. He managed the Guggenheim Exploration Company—a $25-000 post—until 1926 when he resigned. In his later years he used some of this wealth wrested from the earth in philanthropies. One his pet, was the establishment of a scholarship for a Mexican boy at Yale.

NAMED BY HARDING

President Harding named Hammond head of the United States Coal Commission in 1922 to ascertain fundamentals of the industry with a view to prevention of future trouble.
After the death of President Harding, Hammond continued his position and made his reports to Calvin Coolidge. He was prominent in politics at this time and later came out in favour of Herbert Hoover.
President Harding looked to him in 1923 as a successor to Ambassador Warren in Japan but he declined the position.Hammond published "The Autobiography of John Hays Hammond" on his 80th birthday. Still vigorous and lusty, he told reporters he went swimming "every day last year in Florida" and expressed satisfaction that he was through with politics.
He married Natalie Harris, of Mississippi, Jan. 1, 1880, and they had three children: John Hays, Jr., Richard Pindell, and Natalie Hays. His son John Hays, Jr., is an inventor now famous in his own right.

A fatal accident was reported
aboard the British luxury liner, Queen Mary, to-day.Arthur Golding, a twenty-two-year-old lad, making his first trip as an able seaman, was found unconscious
and bleeding profusely on the deck.
Apparently he had slipped and struck
his head heavily.He died subsequently.
Passengers were unaware of his death or of the brief burial service which was performed quietly.A moderate swell to-day induced a slight roll, somewhat destroying the earlier illusions of a luxurious hotel ashore.There is no hope of a record on the present trip as the ship has not reached the speed attained on her outward voyage or the average speed of the Normandie's homeward passage.
The Queen Mary covered 670 miles
during the past twenty-four hours.
She has encountered fog frequently.

New York Giants still clung precariously to second berth in the National League to-day, but they cannot afford to lose another game if Chicago
and Pittsburgh continue to win.
Chicago is within a few points of the Giants and Pittsburgh is only a step behind the Clubs.New York lost again, against the Cincinnati Reds, seven to three. The Reds hit twelve times to the Giants
ten. Each had an error.Pittsburgh beat the Brooklyn Dodgers narrowly, two to one, winning on eight hits against seven.
They had two errors and Dodgers one.
French pitched for Chicago and shut out the Phillies. He gave them eight hits but did not allow a run.
Phillies pitched three errors. The Cubs turned seven hits into victory.
St. Louis, the league leaders, and Boston, did not play.

YANKEES GAIN

The New York Yankees gained another step in the American League
and Boston, in second place to them,
failed to improve its position, splitting a double-header with Detroit.
Yankees were not hard put to it to beat St. Louis.They scored twelve runs on sixteen hits, two of them homers by Dimaggio and Gehrig. The Browns tallied three times on nine hits. Yanks had two and Browns one error.Philadelphia beat Chicago five to four in ten innings, nosing out the Sox by this odd hit. Each had two errors.Boston might have come close to catching the Yankees by winning the double-header with Detroit. The Red Sox won the opener, six to three, when Carlton hit a homer. They had only nine hits against Detroit's eleven.
There were no errors.Detroit pulled ahead in the second contest, scoring twelve runs on as many hits. Detroit's fielding was weak, and there were five errors.
But even so, Boston could only manage seven runs on eight hits, and they,
too, had two errors.The Cleveland-Washington game
was postponed on account of rain.

DECLINEGERMAN AND BRITISH FIGURESBerlin, June 8.
The unemployed in Germany on May 31 totalled 1,491,201, a reduction of 272,000 compared with April.
The figure is over 200,000 below the lowest figure in 1935.—Reuter Special.

London, June 8.
The number of unemployed in Britain on May 25 had declined by 125-188, compared with April 27, while insured employees numbered 10,831-000, an increase of 119,300.—
Reuter Special.

MARKED DECREASE

London, June 8.
A further marked decrease in the numbers of unemployed is shown in the return for May issued by the Labour Ministry to-night.
Ministry estimates that on May 25
the number of insured persons aged 16 to 64 in employment in Great Britain, exclusive of agricultural workers, was approximately 10,831,000.
This was 119,000 more than on April 27 and 472,000 more than on May 20, 1935.Agricultural workers became insured at the beginning of May, but statistics of the numbers of such workers in employment are not yet available.On May 25 the numbers of registered unemployed were 1,705,042, comprising 1,397,765 wholly unemployed, 295,285 temporarily laid off,
and 82,002 normally in casual employment. The total was 126,188 less than the month before and 339,710
less than a year ago.—British Wire-

PARLEYWARM WELCOME BY MINISTERLondon, June 8.
The annual conference of the Empire Press Union opened in London
to-day. Major J. J. Astor, President of the Union, presided over the opening, which was representative of the Home, Dominions and Colonial Press.The delegates were welcomed by the Dominions Secretary, Mr.
Malcolm MacDonald, who said the sovereignty now belonging to the Dominions was complete, and final.
The freedom of the constituent parts of the Commonwealth and the spirit
it engendered was an essential condition of harmonious co-operation
within the Empire.The Postmaster General, Major Glyn, also spoke and assured the conference that the Post Office was doing its utmost to give the Empire communications with the highest

ACCIDENTCOOLIE SEVERELY
INJUREDA nasty accident occurred at Kowloon Docks shortly before 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon, resulting in a labourer receiving severe injuries.
He is now in the Kowloon Hospital,
where his condition is reported to be fairly serious.It appears that the man, named Wong Sin, aged 32, a coolie, living at Wuhu Street, was working as a paint-scraper when he fell from the staging on the side of the N.Y.K. ship Hsiao Maru between the ship and the wharfside. He was crushed between two large wooden fenders.According to a police report, Wong Sin fell into the water. He was brought up to the wharf where it was found that he was suffering from injuries to his hip and right foot. An ambulance was summoned and the injured man was removed to the hospital.Printed and Published for the Proprietors by FREDERICK PERCY
